PREFACE.

Researches begun thirty years ago by the author among old deeds, wills, administratorships, public and church records in his native State, New Jersey, showed that the true history of an American colony could be traced best by investigating the habits, manners, intermarriages, social and religious relations of families. These searches being extended it was found that, while each colony was settled by people of several nationalities, the admixture was greatest in the middle colonies, the center of which was the valley of the Delaware.

Every school child knows that New York was settled by the Hollanders, and the English coming by the way of Puritan New England; that Pennsylvania was bought by William Penn, a Quaker, and that a company of that sect, led by Penn, purchased East and West Jersey. What is not so well known is, that the English Quakers only settled a strip of country extending back about ten miles on each side from the Delaware River, between Trenton and Salem. On the western side of the river the rest of the country was settled by Swedes, Germans, Scotch-Irish, Welsh and emigrants from New England. On the Jersey side of the Delaware the largest influx of settlers were the Dutch from New York, and the English both from Long Island (chiefly) and from New England. Mixed up with these were Swedes, Germans, with a few Scotch-Irish and Huguenots.

Under the land-warrant system of the New Jersey colonies for the sale and disposal of lands, which was afterwards adopted by the United States Government, each settler usually preferred to live on his own farm rather than in a town; therefore, local self-government was left to the townships and counties. Under the religious toleration inaugurated by the Quakers, the Puritan found it best to leave his united town and church government behind him.

That the mechanic arts were encouraged is disclosed in old wills of wealthy and prominent citizens, in which are clauses that because one son had been taught a trade it was considered equal to a bequest of land, from which he would be cut off.

The principles of democratic government and religious freedom, the industrial and social relations, which originated in the middle colonies, grew steadily, and extended persistently, until they have covered the greater part of the United States. From this region the younger sons emigrated until they settled the great central basin of the country. A distinguished Southern investigator wrote to the author that the western half of Virginia and North Carolina had been settled from the valley of the Delaware.

The Stevenson family, whose genealogy and history are given in this book, is but one link in a great chain that stretches across the center of the North American continent.

In order to make easy the tracing of family descent the names of Stevensons only are numbered, in Roman numerals, beginning with I, and ending with CCLXI. If there was a descent from any one of these leaving several children, the names are carried into the next generation, marked by the same number, in Arabic figures, 1, 2, 3, etc. Where female Stevensons have married (except in a few instances) their descendants are only traced down two generations, because their genealogy belongs to the families whose names they bear. They are also recorded in the generation of Stevenson in which they were born to that name, as being easier to connect with the main line. For the latter reason in late and recent generations even those bearing the name Stevenson are not always carried forward to the next one.

In the compilation of this book the author has had the aid of many assistants, to whom credit is given by foot-notes to these pages. There are some of these of whom special mention must be made for their antiquarian research. Among these are Rev. Evelyn P. Bartow, of Utica, N. Y.; Walter B. Denton, of Detroit, Mich.; Isaac S. Waters, of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Benjamin D. Hicks, of Old Westbury, L. I.; Howard Deacon, genealogist, and William C. Stevenson, Junior, of Philadelphia; James Steen, Esq., genealogist, of Eatontown, N. J., and William P. Stevenson, of Roselle, N. J.

The patrons of this book are indebted to H. E. Deats, of Flemington, N. J., for its publication, whose zeal and energy have made its printing possible, and to whom credit is solely due for the style and appearance of the work.

CHAPTER I.

THOMAS STEVENSON.

As the grandchildren of Thomas Stevenson, an Englishman, who settled at Newtown, Long Island, were among the earlier land purchasers and settlers in Hunterdon and Burlington Counties, N. J., and their blood, if not their name, is extensively distributed in these counties, some researches concerning this family may be interesting.

The name Stevenson, spelled with a "v," is of German origin. When Christianity was preached to the Gentiles, and they were converted and baptized, they were often given new names, and those of the Apostles were favorites. Stephen (from the Greek Stephanus), the martyr, was one of these. The French and Italians altered the name of this Apostle to Stephani or Steffanoni. The German tribes wrote it usually Steven. The Danes, Angles and Saxons, from the provinces on the Baltic Sea, who, each in turn, invaded England and so inscribed it, would distinguish the father from the son by calling the latter Stevenson, occasionally Stephenson.

The Hollanders, who were Germans from the hill country, who settled on the coast contiguous to France, spelled the name Stephenzsen, a compromise between their native and the French nomenclature. The Normans who conquered the mingled races of Danes, Angles and Saxons in England were of the same people; who, coming from the North had invaded and subdued the northern part of France, called Normandy, when they adopted the civilization, and in part the language, of the conquered race and commingled the names of the two nationalities. The given name of Stephen was common to the early English people, and it is to-day to the modern race.

In early times men had but one name, and those who had the same given name became known one from the other by the place where they lived, as John of the hill (John Hill); or by their occupation, as Stephen the smith (Stephen Smith); Peter the carpenter (Peter Carpenter). In this way the son of Stephen, or Stevenson, became less frequent as a surname than it otherwise would have been; still it was not an uncommon one.

Among the early Dutch settlers in New Amsterdam was Olaf Stephenzsen, Van Courtland, meaning of the province of Courtland, Holland. By the time of the English conquest of that territory he had dropped the Stephenzsen and retained the Van Courtland. In the Dutch part of Middleburgh (Newtown), Long Island, Joris Stephenzsen (George Stevenson), of Wingen, Holland, bought land in 1651. His family changed the name to Van Alst. Another early Dutch settler was Ian Stephenzsen (John Stevenson), schoolmaster, from Antwerp. This given name also disappears in the second generation. In Hotten's list of 30,000 emigrants registered in England, in the seventeenth century, as bound for the American colonies is Richard Steevenson, aged 19, who took the oath of allegiance at Gravesend, and sailed from London, August 7, 1635, in the ship "Globe," Jeremy Blackman, master, for Virginia. Christopher Steevenson, age 10, took the same oath and sailed from the same port for Virginia, September 2, 1635, on the ship "William and John," Rowland Langman, master. was a Henry Stevenson, who with John Richards applied April 15, 1676, for a patent for 650 acres at Batchelle Harbor, Delaware. About 1700, there were a number of Stevensons (or Stephensons) from England and Ireland who located in Eastern Pennsylvania. Robert Stevenson left a will in Philadelphia in 1695, and Allan Stevenson's will was filed in the same city in 1710. Gyan Stevenson, in 1715, owned a mill in Kennett Square, Chester County, Penna.

There was an Edward Stephenson, who signed his name as a witness to the Indian deed of December 13, 1640, for the lands at Southampton, Long Island, conveyed to an English colony from "Massachusetts," but there is no record of such a person having settled at that place. It is possible, although the spelling of the names is different, that he was the same person afterwards at Newtown, Long Island.

THOMAS STEVENSON.

No. 1. Thomas Stevenson, according to Dutch records in New York, * was born in 1615, and came from London, England. Inquiries made of genealogists in the latter country furnish strong evidence that he was descended from an officer of that name in the army of William the Conqueror, who for services rendered at the Battle of Hastings was rewarded by a grant of land in Scotland, south of Glasgow, the parish and town of which bear the name of Steventon to this day. One of the family, Sir Hugh Stevenson, was High Constable of Scotland, In the border wars between the Scotch and English, which for centuries devastated this section, the estate passed out of the family and it became scattered. What gives support to this is that an old signet ring with a coat of arms, and some old silver plate stamped with the same, are now in the possession of a lineal descendant of Thomas Stevenson, † This coat of arms is identical with that of the Stevensons of counties Derby and Lincoln, England, as given in the "Heralds" visitation of 1662, viz:

"Gu on a bend ar, three leopards' faces vert, crest, a garb or."

Thomas Stevenson probably landed in Virginia about 1643. He brought a suit on February 5, 1645 in the New Haven Court, by attachment against the goods of Mr. Lewis of London, in the hands of William Andrews. Mr. Priden appeared as attorney for Stevenson and asked for judgment. The latter had sold and delivered to Mr. Lewis "a boat at Virginia, valued at £8, who had agreed to give him for it a mare of his then in the hands of Mr. Russell, of Charlestown, Massachusetts." The mare was demanded of Russell, who said he had sold her for £4.

In the year 1643 there was a united attack, by all the Indian tribes around New Amsterdam, upon the Dutch settled there, and the latter were shut up in the fort with but three companies of soldiers for defence. In this emergency Director-General Kieft applied to the English for aid and appointed Capt. John Underhill, an experienced soldier, who had been a distinguished officer of the English force in the war with the Pequods, to the command of the combined Dutch and English forces. The latter were composed of settlers in Connecticut, and a few who had settled on Long Island. He began his campaign in the autumn, and by early winter had completely routed the savages, and compelled them to sue for peace by an overwhelming victory gained in Westchester County, N. Y. Capt. Underhill returned to Stamford, Connecticut, then his residence.

Among those who served under Capt. John Underhill was Thomas Stevenson, as was most natural for a young unmarried man, possessed of a good education for the times, and in an age when military glory was the height of the ambition of the impecunious and adventurous sons of the English gentry. * On January 2, 1644, Capt. Daniel Patrick was shot by a Dutchman in the house of Capt. John Underhill in Stamford, on a Sunday afternoon. His assassin having been arrested, he was placed in Underhill's house as a prisoner, and Thomas Stevenson and George Slowson were "appointed in their course to watch the Dutchman." They put him in a chamber upstairs and locked the door, and sat "by the fire in the lower room at the foot of the stairs," thinking him secure, but he got out of the window and escaped. For this, on April 1, 1644. Stevenson and Slowson were arraigned before the New Haven magistrates, for negligence, and were bound for their appearance.

Whether this court matter or the friendship for Capt. Underhill was the moving cause, Thomas Stevenson shortly afterwards joined the colony from Connecticut, with Underhill, that settled Southold, Long Island. They selected lots adjoining each other, and although Stevenson remained here but a short time, yet we find a record in 1658 "that a meadow called Stevenson's, adjoining Margaret Young, was in the tenure of Thomas Moore." †

Having secured his homestead, Thomas Stevenson took himself a wife. On August 15, 1645, he married Maria Barents (Mary Bernard) in the Reformed Dutch Church, New Amsterdam, Capt. John Underhill being present as a witness. Mary Bernard, whose maiden name was Bullock, first married William Bernard, of Westchester County, N. Y., June 1, 1642.* He was probably killed in the Indian massacre there in 1643,† to revenge which the campaign of the combined Dutch and English already spoken of was undertaken. By her first husband, Mary Bernard had two children, twins, Maria (Mary) and Elizabeth, baptized October 11, 1643, Thomas Hall, a prominent Englishman in the Dutch service, and Engelte Borger being the sponsors. One of these daughters married Abraham Jongbloett (Youngblood) and had three children: Cirina, baptized April 28, 1660; Alexander, baptized March 15, 1662, and Adam Johannes (John) baptized June 18, 1664.

The next record of Thomas Stevenson is on August 23. 1646, when he appears as a plaintiff in the New Amsterdam Courts in a suit against Elias Perchman for two-thirds of a ship. The town lands of Southold, which at first were held in common, were divided in 1647, and Thomas Stevenson was one of the freeholders there who received his share. years after this he leaves this town and appears in Brooklyn, among the Dutch, from 1651 to 1653, as is evinced by several law suits brought by him, one of which was against C. Jacobson for the purchase of a house (1653) on the East River, New York, now modern Catharine Street. In the meantime he secures from the Dutch government, a patent for a bouery or plantation adjoining Middleburgh (Newtown), Long Island, on Flushing Bay, afterwards called Stevens' Point, to which he removed in 1654. Here he soon got into contention with the people of Newtown, which was referred by the Dutch Governor to arbitrators, who on September 22, 1656, made the following report, which gives the full history of the matter:

"We the undersigned commissioners deputed by the Hon'ble. Director General and Council of New Netherlands to settle to the best of our ability the differences between the magistrates of New Middleburg and Thomas Stevenson have proceeded to the bouery or plantation of the said Stevenson situate on Long Island in the jurisdiction of New Netherlands on the 18th of September. Then the magistrates of the said village appeared before us who made complaints in the presence of said Stevenson. 1st., That said Stevenson had closed the wagon road from New Middleburg to the East river near his house and turned it farther down to a deep run or kill, over which he had built a dam of wood or other material and as he has constructed the same at a right angle it is very difficult to turn the carts or wagons coming from above, as the said causeway may be with great danger to their animals and cause them to come to grief; they request that the road be opened. Stevenson maintained that the old road separating his house from his barn prevented him from fencing them in together, or defending his place and that he had therefore made the change. He asserted that the road was quite practical. After having listened to the parties and inspected the place we are of the opinion that the common interests must be preferred to individual interests, and that the old road being straight and more convenient than the other should be reopened for the use of New Middleburg, under the condition however that the same be laid out from the house of said Stevenson on to the wagon road running from the new road to the meadow, as the new road is convenient from there to the river. Second, The neighbors of Stevenson complained that he had damned up a certain run of water generally used, for his own private convenience so that their kill is always dry below for their cattle. Then Stevenson said that the dam built by him does not injure his neighbors, because the kill has no source or spring, but receives its water from the rain which runs off on account of the steep grade of the kill, and because he has made a sluice in the dam which he opens when it rains. Having inspected the place we think for the reasons alleged by Stevenson that the aforesaid dam is neither injurious or prejudicial to the neighbors, because they can build a similar dam below the first and gather thereby a sufficient quantity of water for their use. Third, The neighbors complained that the said Stevenson has run his fences into the river and thereby obstructed the passage of their cattle coming from the woods, which causes the same frequently to return into the woods to their great disadvantage. The said Stevenson said that he had placed his fences in the water to save farther labor and expense and that there was room enough behind the land for the cattle to come home. After having heard the parties and examined the title deeds of Stevenson we find Stevenson's boundaries run along the river and not into it; we are therefore of the opinion that the said Stevenson has deprived his neighbors and others against the law of nations of the use of the shore and should now leave it to the public. Fourth, The magistrates of New Middleburgh complained that the said Stevenson had, against the general rule of the village fenced in all his meadow with an enclosure and they maintained should have been divided into three equal parts, one of which was to remain in his possession, while the two others were to be used by the community generally, and he should receive for this two equally larger shares in the large Then Stevenson answered that he owned and meadow. claimed the said meadow by virtue of his patent which being produced it was found that the Honorable Director-General of New Netherlands had granted the said Stevenson in question containing 20 morgens. The said magistrates replied that Stevenson had obtained the said patent by trickery as he had not stated that the meadow belonged to Middleburgh territory. which seems reasonable for the Director General had promised them that no patent should prejudice their rules, and as we could find no decision in the controversy we were inclined to submit it to his Honor the Director General as being the best exponent of his promise and his patent." (Signed) "Coun-CILLOR LAMONTAGNE and CAPT. THOMAS WILLET."

The first three decisions of the Councillors were approved by the Director-General. "On the 4th and last, it is understood that the above-mentioned patent has been obtained by misrepresentation and false report, that the proper intentions and promise of the Director-General in every respect was and shall remain in force to the effect that no private property shall prejudice a village community; it is further notoriously evident that a mistake has been made either by the clerk or surveyor in measuring or reporting the same and boundaries of the meadow land and that further disputes may arise there-from. The Director General and the Council order that the patent of Thomas Stevenson shall be amended, but so that in place of a third part of the meadow allowed by the magistrate to him as to others he shall keep one half of it near his fields, because he has hereto been the oldest and first owner of it, and in regard to the other half of it shall be considered in the allotment with the other inhabitants of Middleburg."

This dispute remained unsettled for some years, for on July 9, 1658, Thomas Stevenson brings a suit against "Jonn Gray and Sales" for cutting down his post and rails, which the defendants asserted obstructed the road. The Director-General orders them not to make another road and fines each of them 1£ Sterling, while Stevenson is ordered to lay out the road as ordered by Mess. LaMontagne and Capt. Thomas Willett.* The next month, August 31st, Stevenson complains that the Magistrates of Middleburgh have opened another road through his fences, for which the Director-General orders these rulers to appear before the Council and show cause for their action, and to conform to the order of July 9th, as above mentioned.

In all these suits it is apparent that Thomas Stevenson had the favor of Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch Governor, as far as his sense of justice would permit. Several minor suits are recorded, all of which show the determined and persistent character of Stevenson, and furnish likewise a clear picture of the times. They indicate that while the English on Long Island had home rule, yet there was a final appeal to the Dutch authorities as arbitrators of their disputes. Whatever may have been the personal jealousies of these two nationalities who were neighbors on Long Island, it is clear that the government had perfect confidence in their English subjects.

The last official record of Thomas Stevenson is on November 4, 1662, "Samuel Too, plaintiff vs. Direk Van Schellugru, defendant, in regard to the award made by the arbitrators for a certain piece of land situate at Mespacht Kill, and belonging to the heirs of Richard Beert, for payment of rent" according to the award of Thomas Hall and Thomas Stevenson arbitrators on 27 of May, previous. The award was 500 guelders, which the Director-General Stuyvesant and Council allow, but authorize the said arbitrators to estimate and value the rent for the use of lands, and to offset it against the improvements made by Samuel Too."

As this is the last personal notice of Thomas Stevenson he probably died shortly after this. The following discloses that he died intestate, leaving property in England:

"New York Surrogate's office, Vol. 1 of Wills, p. 25.*

"July 7, 1668, Mr. Robert Coe, and Mr. Daniel Denton † of Jamaica having been heretofore overseers and guardians of the estate and children of Thomas Stevenson, deceased, late of Newtown: they are admitted and confirmed as administrators, &c., to the estate of Thomas Stevenson by Richard Nicholls.

"July 9, 1668, Robert Coe resigns as administrator &c., to the estate of Thomas Stevenson, and will not hold himself liable to said estate, or his heirs, at London or in any part of England.

"August 15, 1668, ‡ Anthony Waters of Jamaica, appointed administrator of Thomas Stevenson, deceased, late of Newtown, having consent of nearer relatives."

† Mr. Anthony Waters, Senior, an English lawyer, was a resident of Marshfield, Massachusetts, in 1643. According to a record in Norwich, Connecticut, of the testimony of Nehemiah Smith, made in 1679, Anthony Waters lived with him on Long Island in 1652, and soon afterwards returned to "Old England." He seems to have made but a short stay, as in 1658 he owned a house-lot in the "North Sea" district of Southampton, Long Island. Lyon Gardiner, of Gardiner's Island, purchased, on July 28, 1659, of the Indian Sachems, Weandance and his son Weeaycombown, the bodies and bones, except fins and "tailes," of all the whales that might be cast ashore from Ketchaminschoke to Enoughquamuck, for 21 years, and transferred the right to Mr. Anthony Waters, who at this time was practicing law in the New Haven Courts. In 1661 he was following his profession in Southampton.

The house-lots in Jamaica, Long Island were first set off to its inhabitants in 1656, and contained six acres each. After several purchases from the Indians, more land was allowed them, Mr. Waters appearing in the largest allotments, made in 1663. He acted as adviser and attorney for the town in the various disputes that arose between it and neighboring towns, for which the inhabitants voted that he should have "Ye great hollow at ye South West Corner of ye little plains." Gov. Nicholls appointed him, March 7, 1664, "Clarke" of the Court of Sessions for the North Riding of Long Island. This office he held until 1673, when the town relieved him of the further care of its books of deeds and papers, eight in number, which are recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, Albany. Director General Stuyvesant, in 1663, made a complaint to Gov. Winthrop about Mr. Waters, for having, in company with John Coe and with eighty horse and foot, put down certain Dutch magistrates and put others in their place. He was a juryman in the Court of Assizes in New York at a trial in October, 1665, of Ralph Hall and Mary his wife for witchcraft, when the jury decided the evidence insufficient to convict the accused. The same year, February 5th, he was one of the patentees of Jamaica to whom was confirmed the lands that had been purchased at various times: The town selected him and Mr. Oldfield, in 1675, "to goe down to Fort William Hendrick, there to appear before the general of the Dutch fleete there, on the behalf of the town as the Warrant reseaved from the two generals required, as if the town were all present." Mr. Waters died in 1675, his widow, Rachel, surviving.

His children were: sons Anthony, Junior; Jonathan, whose son Jonathan settled in Hopewell, New Jersey, dying in 1762; Thomas Waters, who married Mary, daughter

His oldest son, John Stevenson, fell heir to his "bouery" and was recorded as a freeholder in Newtown, December 4, 1666.

Thomas and Mary (Bernard) Stevenson's children were:

- II. John.
- III. Thomas.
- IV. Edward.
- V. Sarah, married Patrick Hires.

JOHN STEVENSON.

No. 2. JOHN STEVENSON<sup>2</sup> (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) first appears to public notice as a freeholder at Newtown, December 4, 1666, and again in January 4, 1667, when he was the owner of his father's plantation, north of Newtown, who with his neighbors fenced in his lands.

The early English settlers on Long Island formed companies or associations which secured a patent for and purchased a certain tract of land. Each contributor or stockholder was granted a lot upon which to build his house, with a small quantity of land, twenty to forty acres, to till for his household wants; the rest of the land was held in common for the use of pasturage for cattle and for a supply of fuel. Each owner held a right to the common land in proportion to his original cash payment into the association, with a right to pasture a propor-of William Foster, and died January 3, 1713; David Waters, who married Hannah, daughter of Thomas Smith and died in 1742, and possibly a daughter, Ann Waters, wife of Nehemiah Smith.

Anthony Waters, Junior, married Elizabeth, daughter of Major Daniel and Abigall (Stevenson) Whitehead, who bequeathed to his sou-in-law several pieces of land, among which was "my Meadow Lying in Old Town Neck, in Jamaica, which I bought of his father, Mr. Anthony Waters, deceased." At the time of the "great sickness" in 1702, Anthony Waters, Junior, was delegated by Jamaica to receive the Governor and Conneil of New York at the ferry, upon the removal of the seat of government from the latter city to the former town. His children were: Daniel Waters, born 1694, married Mary, daughter of John Talman, and died September 1, 1748; Anthony Whitehead Waters, who married, May 21, 1726, Margaret, daughter of Elbert and Joana (Varick) Willett, and died in 1771; Benjamin Waters, wife Sarah, died in 1767, who was the great-great-grandfather of Daniel Talman Waters, of Flushing; Elizabeth Waters, who married Samuel, son of Samuel and Hannah Smith, among whose fifteen children was Melancthon Waters, jurist, judge and a distinguished member of the New York Convention that adopted the Constitution of the United States.—MSS, notes of Isaac S. Waters, Brooklyn, N. Y.

tionate number of cattle. The settlers erected their houses near each other for safety against the attacks of the Indians, and to be convenient to church, school and the local governing authority. This system checked the home growth of population, as sons must either inherit the homestead, buy out a neighbor or move away. When New Jersey lands were opened for sale in tracts to suit, by the Quaker proprietors, they were eagerly sought after and purchased by the Long Island people for their sons, especially the junior ones.

John Stevenson appears to have been unmarried and to have died young. His will is dated December 13, 1670; in it he leaves bequests to his brothers Thomas and Edward and to a married sister Sarah, whose last name is indistinctly written as "Patrick Hires." A child of hers is mentioned but not named. His executor was his brother Thomas. The witnesses were Francis Doughty and William Moore.

THOMAS STEVENSON, SECOND.

No. 3. Thomas Stevenson<sup>2</sup> (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) seems to have been the second son, and was probably born about 1648. By the death of his elder brother, John, he came into possession of part of the paternal homestead. In the tax-list of Newtown for 1683 he was assessed for forty acres of land, one horse, one one-year-old, and one two-year-old colt, four oxen, eight cows, five two-year-old, and four four-year-old calves, twenty sheep and seven swine.*

In February, 1672, Thomas Stevenson married Elizabeth, only daughter of Capt. William Lawrence, by his first wife, whose name is unknown.

Capt. William Lawrence "was born about 1623, in England, probably at St. Albans, in Hertfordshire. He came to America in 1635, when 12 years of age, in the ship "Planter," and afterwards settled in Long Island. He, with his brother, John Lawrence, and sixteen others, were the patentees of Flushing, Long Island, where he spent the remainder of his life and became the largest landed proprietor. His residence was at Lawrence or Tew's Neck. He was a prominent and leading citizen and was a Magistrate for many years. He is frequently styled "Captain." and probably acquired the title in military service. His correspondence with Governor Stuyvesant in 1662-63 is on file among the archives of Albany, and is said to embrace some ably written papers.

He was twice married. The name of his first wife has not been discovered. He married, second, Elizabeth Smith, daughter of Richard Smith. The marriage license is dated March 4, 1664, as appears from the following entry in the Book of General Entry, No. 1, at page 98, on file in the office of the Secretary of State, at Albany, New York:

"Whereas I have received information and satisfaction that there is an intent of marriage between William Lawrence of fflushing and Elizabeth the daughter of Richard Smith of Mishaquak'd upon Long Island, upon the request I give them license so to do, and do hereby require you to proclaim the said William Lawrence and Elizabeth Smith man and wife and so record them and to proceed therein according to your formall custom on the like occasions.

"Given under my hand at Hemstead this 4th day of March 1664. "RICHD. NICHOLLS."

He died intestate about 1680, aged 57 years. Letters of administration were granted March 25, 1680, to Elizabeth, his widow, and William, his eldest son. The inventory of his personal property is on file in the Surrogate's office, New York. His sword, plate and other personalty were valued at £4,430 sterling. On March 10, 1681, Elizabeth Lawrence, widow of William, was made guardian of her seven children—Mary. Thomas, Joseph, Richard, Samuel, Sarah and James. *

After the death of William Lawrence his widow, Elizabeth, married Sir Philip Carteret, and Elizabethtown, New Jersey, was named after her. This marriage made Thomas Stevenson (second) a stepson to the Governor of East Jersey.

Thomas Stevenson held in succession the various offices that are within the province of a small town. He was Overseer of Newtown, an office equivalent to Mayor, in the years 1676 and 1678. In the latter year he also acted as Constable, a very important post in colonial days. On March 3, 1684, Thomas Stevenson, his brother Edward and others, were appointed commissioners to look out for a place of settlement next to the This indicates that these localities were already cramped for room for their increasing families, and it gives the key to the emigration that began at this time to the newlyopened lands of New Jersey, especially the western part of it. On October 20, 1685, Thomas Stevenson was commissioned a Justice of the Peace for Queens County; and in the succeeding year he was one of the grantees to whom the new charter for Newtown was given. Boundary disputes having arisen between this place and its neighbors, a commission was appointed May 16, 1706, to settle them, and Thomas Stevenson was a member of it. His last public trust was in 1713, when he was one of a committee to defend Newtown in its land suits.

In religion Thomas Stevenson was evidently at first attached to the Congregational Church, for his father, Thomas, Senior, had been one of the sureties to the carpenter who erected the building for that denomination in Newtown in 1655. On July 9, 1680, Thomas Lawrence, administrator of Joseph Winslow, filed a petition of complaint againt Thomas Stevenson, for which the latter gave his bond to the former on September 13, 1683, and which was settled the succeeding month. This suit at law clearly indicates that he had not joined the "Society of Friends," as such suits are contrary to the tenets of that sect. Between this date and 1687,* it is believed, that his first wife died; that he married again and joined the Quakers, for a few years after this he became an active member of that religious organization. Historical Record of Friends' tells us* that on 28 day, 9 mo., 1696, a lot 40x80 was purchased on Green Street, New York. for £25, on which to erect a "Meeting House." Samuel Haight was authorized to receive subscriptions, and "the contrivance and dimensions and agreeing with the workmen be left to Thomas Stevenson, John Feaks,† John Way, George Langley and John Rodman." From the same authority we learn that Samuel Jenings, who had been the first Governor of West Jersey, visiting "Friends" on Long Island in 1699, stopped at the house of Thomas Stevenson at Newtown. Again, on 2 day, 5 mo., 1702, "Thomas Stevenson, father and sou," were distrained for a horse to pay for the building of a church (English); but on an appeal to the Governor they were restored. This persecution was an additional motive for the sons to remove to New Jersey. A Friends' Meeting was held at Thomas Stevenson's house on 1 day, 11mo., 1706, in regular course, there being no public place of worship for Quakers in Newtown.

About this period Thomas Stevenson began to buy land in New Jersey. He was no doubt persuaded to do so by Samuel Jenings and other Quaker missionaries who were in the habit of preaching their doctrines on Long Island. His purchases, made at different times, were in one locality, on what is known as the boundary line between East and West Jersey—part in Monmouth County, but most of it in Burlington County. These land purchases are all recorded in the office of the Secretary of State, Trenton, N. J.

The deed for this land, still in possession of the Society of Friends, is dated August 5, 1696; "from David Lloyd of Philadelphia Gentlemen, and Isaac Norris, executors of Thomas Lloyd of Philadelphia, to William Bickley of New York, merchant, John Rodman of Flushing, physician, Thomas Stevens and Edward Stevens of Newtown, Yeomen." On 28 day, 3 mo., 1698, William Bickley, John Rodman, Thomas Stevenson and Edward Stevenson conveyed this to four other Friends. Thomas "Stephens" was one of twelve arbitrators appointed by the meeting in 1701 to settle the difference between Daniel Kirkpatrick and Thomas Hedger. Thomas Stevensons name, variously spelled, appears frequently on committees.

These tracts, as will appear hereafter, were given to his younger sons.

Thomas Stevenson married a second wife, named Ann. It is not positively known who she was, but a will of Robert Field,* of Flushing, Long Island, indicates that she was one of that family. He died in 1734, and makes Daniel Stevenson, son of Thomas and Ann, his executor, and styles him his cozen. Very frequently, in colonial days, nephews were called cousins. As Robert Field was an old man, and Daniel Stevenson comparatively a young one, the first relationship would be a natural one.

Thomas Stevenson died at Newtown, Long Island, 6 day, 2 mo., 1725. His children were:

By his first wife, Elizabeth Lawrence:

- VI. Thomas.
- VII. William.
- VIII. John.
  - IX. Elizabeth, who died unmarried, 27 day, 9 mo., 1703.

By his second wife, Ann:

- X. Nathaniel.
- XI. Daniel.
- XII. Stephen.
- XIII. Susannah.
- XIV. Ann.

Four of these sons removed to New Jersey, but neither of the daughters left their native place.

*Robert Field was the son of Robert Field, Senior, one of the patentees of Newtown. He was born about 1658. His will is dated October 10, 1734. His brother, Benjamin Field, located part of the Amwell Tract, near Lambertville, Hunterdon County, where he died in 1704.

EDWARD STEVENSON.

No. 4. EDWARD STEVENSON<sup>2</sup> (Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of Thomas, the emigrant, was born about 1650. He was assessed in the taxables of Newtown in 1675 with thirty acres of land. When the next census was taken, in 1683, he had enlarged his lot to forty acres, and had one horse, three oxen, six cows, one three-year-old and one two-year old and one one-year old calves, twenty sheep and one swine. In the years 1683 and 1684 he served as Overseer of Newtown. As has been previously stated, he and his brother Thomas, in 1684, were sent to look out for a place of settlement next to the Dutch; and in the same year he was one of the grantees for a charter to his native town. He and Jonathan Hazard were despatched in 1685 to the Dutch town of Flatbush, to demand "why they disturb our inhabitants in matters of land claims." He served as Town Clerk of Newtown from 1691 to 1695.

On June 27, 1691, Newtown voted "that Thomas and Edward Stevenson shall have the stream or brook called Ludovok Creek as their own right, to have and to hold to them and theirs forever, with what convenience of land can be spared without infringing on the highway, for the building of a Fulling Mill." This was said to have been the first mill of the kind on Long Island, and was operated by the two families for twenty years. On October 11, 1711, Thomas Stevenson and John Stevenson, son of Edward, who was deceased, sold it to Jesse Kip.

Edward Stevenson's death is recorded in the Flushing, L. I., "Friends' Records" as taking place in the 12 day, 7 mo., 1700. This proves him to have been a member of this sect. His widow, Charity, continued in the faith, and on 1 day, 5 mo., 1702, Thomas Story, a noted Quaker preacher, held "a large meeting near Newtown, where it is kept once a year, and returned in the evening to Widow Charity Stevenson's at Newtown."† Again, in 1724, Thomas Chalkley, another distinguished minister of that sect, "held a meeting at the house of Widow Charity Stevenson," in the same town.

Edward Stevenson made no purchase of land in New Jersey, but the year after his death, on November 14, 1701, his widow, Charity, bought 1000 acres of Benjamin Field, being part of his Amwell Tract, in Hunderton County, N. J. This she divided between her two younger sons.

Charity Stevenson, born about 1653, was the daughter of Robert and Susannah Field, of Newtown, Long Island. Her father was born in 1631, and died 13 day, 2 mo., 1691,* There has been great research and much written about the ancestry of the American Fields. Like many other early emigrants there were several of the name who left England for the Colonies. The name itself was not uncommon in the old country. What is known about Charity Stevenson's forefathers is that she was the grand-daughter of Robert and Charity Field. This Robert, the emigrant, is supposed to be he who was born in Yorkshire, England, and baptized in Halifax Church, March 9, 1605, his education being left to his Uncle Edward. What is certain is, that his name is on the list of the inhabitants of Newport, Rhode Island, who had been admitted subsequent to May 20, in 1638. He was made a freeman of the town, December 19, 1639. next appears in the company that settled Flushing, Long Island, his name being among the patentees who received the grant of land there, October 10, 1645. This colony was for some time in the jurisdiction of Rhode Island. At a General Assembly held at Newport, May 18, 1653, Robert Field was appointed one of eight members of a committee to whom was referred matters concerning the Dutch in Long Island. was deceased, at Flushing, by 1672, as on February 6th of that year his widow, Charity, signs a release of a lot of land to her son Anthony.

Charity Stevenson had one sister, Mary, married to Col. William Willett, of Westchester, New York, son of Col. Thomas Willett, of Flushing; another, Sarah, wife of Jonathan Whitehead, of Jamaica, Long Island (son of Major Daniel), who was a member of the New York Assembly from 1705 to 1709; and a third sister, Susannah, who married Isaac Marriott, of Burlington, New Jersey, brother-in-law of Governor Jenings, who represented his district in the West Jersey Assembly in 1682. After Isaac Marriott's decease she married Peter Fearon. Three of her brothers, Benjamin, Nathaniel and Ambrose Field, settled in Chesterfield Township, Burlington County, N. J. The first-named was the purchaser of the large tracts of land in Hunterdon County.

Edward and Charity Stevenson's children were:

XV. John.

XVI. Elnathan.

XVII. William.

XVIII. Charity.

XIX. Susannah.

CHAPTER II.

SAMUEL JENINGS.

SAMUEL JENINGS was the first Governor of West Jersey. As his family is intimately connected with the Stevensons, a short sketch of him will be appropriate.

He came from that part of the town of Coleshill, England, that lies in Buckinghamshire; the other part of the town is in Hertfordshire, the adjoining county. Although considerable search has been made, nothing is known of his parentage. His surname, variously spelled, was quite common in all parts of England in the 17th century. In the adjoining county, Hertfordshire, one of his name, Sir John Jennings, of St. Albans, was knighted in 1626, and became a Member of Parliament. If there was any relationship between the families it does not appear. It is more likely that Samuel Jenings was nearly connected with George Fox, the founder of the sect of Quakers, and was instructed in the faith by him, as in Governor Jenings' will he bequeaths a legacy to "his cozen" (niece), Susannah Fox. His mother was one of the early "Friends," Sarah Jenings' death being entered on their records under date 7 day, 11 mo., 1674, at Aylesbury, Bucks, England.

Samuel Jenings was a minister in the new sect and his name appears, amongst others, signed to an epistle issued by the London Monthly Meeting in 1677.

In the year 1680 the new colony of West Jersey owned by the creditors of Edward Byllinge needed a Governor, and Samuel Jenings was selected by them as its ruler. Byllinge was the nominal Governor, residing in England. The former reached his post in the fall of that year.* This was a difficult and trying position, inasmuch as the colonists themselves had no direct voice in his appointment. His conduct of affairs was, however, so satisfactory that after a year's service he was formally accepted by the Assembly on November 25, 1681. He continued to act in this capacity for three years, when the Assembly took upon itself the authority to elect a Governor, and in the spring of 1683 elected Samuel Jenings* to that office for one year, his salary to be 600 acres of land to be located above the Falls of the Delaware. During this period he was engaged in commerce, as the deeds state that he was by occupation a merchant.

This act being unsatisfactory to Byllinge, the Assembly, early in 1684, passed a law appointing Samuel Jenings and Thomas Budd commissioners to go to England to negotiate for their "demand and vindication of their right to the Government against Edward Byllinge." † Jenings nominated his brother-in-law, Thomas Olive, as his Deputy Governor, and he was confirmed by the Assembly. ‡

The mission was not successful. Byllinge clung to his prerogative and appointed John Skeen as his Deputy. This was confirmed in November, 1685, at which session of the Assembly Samuel Jenings took his seat as a representative from the "2nd tenth," part of Burlington County.

The Council of Proprietors of West Jersey was organized the 14 day, 12 mo., 1687, to regulate the location of lands and the claims of the settlers. Eleven Proprietors were appointed, the name of Samuel Jenings heading the list. This association continues in existence up to the present time.

At this period a great change took place in the affairs of West Jersey. Many sales had been made of the shares of the first owners. Dr. Daniel Coxe, a London physician, had been the largest purchaser and controlled the government of the colony, ruling by a deputy. He was a member of the Church of England, and although not unfriendly to the Quakers, had no especial reason to favor them. Many of the early officials retired to private life. Among these was Samuel Jenings, *&quot;I Samuel Jenings being elected Governor of the Province of West Jersey by the General Free Assembly thereof sitting at Burlington the 11th day of the third month in the year 1683, do freely and faithfully promise (according to the best of my ability) to act in that capacity according to the laws and concessions and constitutions as they are now established in the said Province."—"Learning & Spicer's Grants and Concessions," p. 472.

who in the year 1689 removed to Philadelphia, still recording himself as a merchant. In the year following, 1690, he was appointed Receiver General of Pennsylvania. In the same year he was also made a Judge of the Court and a Justice of the Quorum, which offices he held for three years.

He now began to take an active part in the religious discussions that had arisen among Friends over the theories and doctrines promulgated by George Keith, who had lately located in Philadelphia. At a Quarterly Meeting of Ministers, held in first month, 1692, Samuel Jenings and Griffith Owen were appointed a committee to visit Keith, and "call upon him for a condemnation of his doctrine." This was unsuccessful, and the latter in reply said that "he trampled upon the judgment of the meeting as dirt under his feet." At another meeting, held in the fourth month of that year, an address was issued to the members, pronouncing a separation of the schismatic from their Society, Samuel Jenings being one of the signers. Keith refused to acknowledge this sentence, but carried the matter up to the next Yearly Meeting; in the meanwhile he and Thomas Budd issued a pamphlet called "The Plea of the Innocents," in which Jenings was assailed as "being too high and imperious in worldly courts," and was "called an impudent, presumptuous and insolent man." * The latter Yearly Meeting was held in Burlington, in 7 mo., 1692, when the judgment of the Quarterly Meeting was sustained. Keith then appealed to the London Yearly Meeting.

Early in the year 1694 Samuel Jenings and Thomas Duckett were appointed to go to London and appear as respondents to this appeal. The hearing of the case came up on the first of fourth month of this year and occupied six days, Jenings personally replying to the allegations and arguments of Keith. The case was not finally settled until the next year when Keith's dismissal from the Society was ordered.

Returning from England Samuel Jenings again took up his residence in Burlington, New Jersey.† In January, 1698, the Yearly Meeting of Friends was held in his house. In the next year he made a missionary tour through New England and Long Island. In the latter place he held a meeting "at the house of Thomas Stevenson, near Newtown," three of whose sons were destined to become his sons-in-law. This was an eventful tour, for it was at once followed by a large emigration from these localities to West Jersey.

Samuel Jenings does not appear to have taken any part in the public affairs of West Jersey from the time of his removal to Philadelphia, in 1689, until the surrender of East and West Jersey by the Proprietors to the Crown, in 1702, and the appointment of Lord Cornbury as Governor. On the 16th day of November, in that year, the latter received his instructions and selected his Council of thirteen members; Samuel Jenings being one of them.

Cornbury's administration was very unsatisfactory and unpopular, and a dispute arose between him and the General Assembly as to the duties and authority of the latter body. This continued until 1707, when a new election for members was ordered. Samuel Jenings was one of those chosen to represent Burlington County, and was elected Speaker. The Assembly at once prepared a petition of grievances to the Queen, and a remonstrance to the Governor. Jenings read this paper himself. During its delivery, Smith says that Cornbury "frequently interrupted him with 'stop, what's that?' etc., putting on a countenance of authority and sternness with intention to confound him," but he merely asked leave to read it again, which he did with greater emphasis. At the next session of the Assembly, in 1708, he was not able to attend, being stricken with his last illness.

Samuel Jenings is described by his contemporaries as a man of warm and affectionate disposition, but of a hasty temper, which he kept under prudent control. He was naturally an orator, ready to speak his opinions in the legislative hall, the "Meeting" or the private house. He was a brave defender and courageous propagator of his religion, and at the same time a bold and fearless champion of the rights and liberties of the people. During the twenty-eight years of his life in America he united in his person the minister of the gospel, legislator, magistrate and chief executive of the State, and in all these positions he did his duty faithfully and with great ability, always enjoying the confidence of the people.

He had two residences in New Jersey. One was in the town of Burlington. This house, which was of brick, is still standing at No. 3 Pearl Street, below Main, and lately belonged to the estate of W. R. Vandergrift. It was sold by Thomas Stevenson, one of Jenings' executors, on March 19, 1711, to Hugh Huddy for £100. The present building, which is three stories, is rough-cast, with an uncovered two-story back building of ancient appearance. The whole has evidently been altered and enlarged. Upon the front, over the second floor windows, are the initials "I. H. 1725," which stand for a Huddy, who, most likely, added a front of three stories to what was the original house, which once faced to the river, instead of from it, as it does now. His office is said to have stood at the southeast corner of Main and Pearl Streets, close by his residence. His plantation, or country place, was just beyond the present city limits and contained two tracts of land, one of 480 acres lying within the old "town bounds," and the other 525 acres adjoining it in Northampton Township, and called "Green Hill." Upon this latter stands the old brick house, now part of a tenant house, with the brass knocker engraved "S. J." still upon the door. It is located about three miles from Burlington, between Deacon's Station and the Jacksonville Road. Samuel Jenings seems to have lived at Green Hill from 1684 to 1689, as deeds executed during this period so give his residence, and likewise his occupation as a yeoman or farmer. He sold the whole of this plantation to his son-in-law, William Stevenson, in 1702.

No.6. Thomas Stevenson, Junior<sup>3</sup>, (Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>3</sup>). There is no record of his birth, but it was probably about 1674. Passing into Buck's County, Penna., we find a deed recorded, which is dated January 20, 1701, and which informs us that Thomas Revell sold to "Thomas Stevenson, Junior, of Long Island," for £500, 1000 acres on the south side of the Neshaminy Creek. This was in Bensalem Township, a short distance from the present line of the City of Philadelphia, and near to the Delaware River. The succeeding year (March 16), he added to his possession 2500 acres on the southwest bank of the same stream.

That he had not moved on to this land is shown by the Records of the Flushing Friends' Meeting,* which in 1702 state that Thomas Stevenson, Senior, and Thomas Stevenson, Junior, had each a horse returned to them as a result of a petition to Gov. Lord Cornbury, after they had been distrained for the building of a church. "At a monthly Meeting held at ye meeting house in flushing the 2 day, 6 mo., '99, Thomas Stevenson, Junior, desires a certificate from this meeting to Friends of West New Jersey concerning his orderly walking amongst us which this meeting has granted." From this it would appear that he at first intended to settle in New Jersey, but having bought land in Pennsylvania he had changed his mind, for at the Flushing Monthly Meeting held 2 day, 2 mo., 1702, Thomas Stevenson, Senior, of Newtown, requests a certificate of clearance for his son Thomas.

On the 10 day, 2 mo., 1664, Thomas Stevenson made his second application to the Burlington, N. J., Friends' Meeting for its approval to marry Sarah Penington, widow of Edward,* and the eldest daughter of Gov. Samuel Jenings, of West Jersey. The date of the marriage is not on record, but according to the rules governing that religious society it usually took place within two weeks of what is styled the 'Passing of the Meeting' the second time.

Thomas Stevenson was elected a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly in 1710, and served continuously until his death in 1719. He was likewise one of eight Justices of the Peace for Bucks County. In the year 1712 he was elected a member of the Council of Proprietors of West Jersey. was one of the great land-owners of the time; buying large tracts in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland. These he disposed of in smaller lots to actual settlers. From a diary kept by Samuel Reading,† of Hunterdon County, N.J., we get an excellent idea how Thomas Stevenson and other large purchasers acquired their lands. A party of surveyors and proprietors, as they were called, went up on the head-waters of the Raritan River to select land. Previous to this journey Thomas Stevenson, of Buck's County, and Joseph Kirkbride, of the same place, had bought ! February 24, 1712, of John Moore and James Logan, of Philadelphia, "one equal and undivided moiety or one half § part of one ninetieth part of ninety nine equal parts, or one half a propriety of all that tract of land in * Edward Penington was the son of Isaac Pennington, Alderman, of London. The latter was at one time Lieutenant of the Tower, and subsequently Lord Mayor of London. He was one of the judges who condemned Charles I to death. He married, in 1654. Mary Proude Springett, daughter of Sir John Proude, and widow of Sir William Springett. Gulielma Maria Springett, Lady Springett's daughter by her first husband, was a half-sister of Edward Penington and the first wife of William Penn. Isaac Penington after his marriage moved to his paternal inheritance, The Grange, Chalfont. St. Peter's, Bucks, which was close to the homes of William Penn, Samuel Jenings and others who emigrated to America. After the restoration of Charles II his estate was confiscated in 1660, but he was allowed to remain in possession until 1666. He and and his wife both joined the Friends. Their son, Edward Pennington, emigrated to Pennsylvania, where he was made Surveyor-General. He married Sarah Jenings, November 16, 1699, in Friends' Meeting, in Burlington. William Penn was present at the wedding. He left one son, Isaac Penington.

the Western Division of New Jersey in the upper purchase above the branch of the Raritan, between the Delaware and Raritan Rivers." Moore and Logan had purchased it of John Evans, of St. Martin's Field, Middlesex, England. Purchasers of these Rights, as they were styled, had the privilege of locating them upon land not taken up. The locating was done by having the tract surveyed and entered on the records of the Surveyor-General's office in Burlington. This constituted the title,

Samuel Reading writes in his journal, under date of April 30, 1715, "Thomas Stevenson having gone toward Pequannock, and Mahlon Stacy being newly come * * * their lots not being fixed we surveyed none this day. Cox, Bull, Haywood and I went for Ryerson's; we met with Stevenson and George Ryerson at H. Davis, upon Rockaway River, where Stevenson seemed to fix upon a lot, but by reason of his unreasonableness we did not proceed." "May 4, I surveyed * * * we met Thomas Stevenson who pitched upon a lot. I went along with him to Paulus Vanderbecks upon Pequannock River, where we lodged all night." "May 5, they went to run Stevenson's lot, but he seems to have been very hard to suit and would not take it," "May 31, Surveyed along Musconetcong River." "June 1, We traversed the river still higher with intention to lay out a lot for Mahlon Stacy and completed the same, when after our arrival at our horses, Thomas Stevenson and Samuel Green (a surveyor) came up the river in quest of us, and told us that our labor there bestowed upon the river was all in vain for they had surveyed that land before us. In the end it proved that they had laid out a lot which was prior to ours and interfered with Mahlon's. We discoursed for an accommodation, but Stevenson would not condescend, so after a multiplicity of words pro and con we went together down the river, where they had left their provisions with another hand and an Indian called Pishotwhen we came the Indian was gone."

The result of this land-hunting trip, thus so graphically described by Reading, is to be found in the books in the Surveyor-General's office, viz.: "May 4, 1713. * Surveyed to Thomas Stevenson in the last Indian purchase above the Falls. Beginning at a white oak corner near Minnesink Path, between the branches of the Raritan, and a branch of the Delaware River called Musconetcong near a little run," etc. The tract was surveyed for 2500 acres * besides allowance for highways. "May 7, 1715, † Surveyed to Thomas Stevenson in the Western Division of New Jersey, situate near the head of a branch of Pessiack River, called Whippany. Beginning at a corner post, then N. E., 19°, 11 chains to a white oak marked S.; then S. E., 19°, 82 chains to a post; then S. W. by the bounds of Thomas Lambert's land," etc. It contained 1200 acres, and 50 acres allowed for highways.

Thomas Stevenson's (Junior) will is dated November 8, 1717. It was probated October 9, 1719. His executors were his wife Sarah and Joseph Kirkbride. The witnesses were Anna Marriott, John Axford and Benjamin Field. In this instrument he directs that all his lands shall be sold. To his widow he bequeaths a dower of one-third; to his son Samuel £150; to son Edward £100; to his daughters Sarah and Ann, "as much as will make up their legacies which were given them by their grandfather Jenings, £50." All these legacies were to be paid so soon as they came of age or were married. The remainder of his estate was to be equally divided among his six children; but if they all die, then it was to descend to the children of his brothers William and John.

THOMAS STEVENSON'S (JUNIOR) LAND PURCHASES:

January 6, 1701, buys of John Hutchinson, 2 lots of 500 acres each, in Salem County, N. J.

January 20, 1701, buys of Thomas Revell, in Bucks County, Penna., 1000.

* The original surveys usually contained nearly twice the number of acres indicated. The surveyor took his compass and either walked or rode on horse-back around the tract, marking corners and estimating distances by the time it took to traverse between them. He made sure of an excess of acreage, for then he never heard of it; if his estimate fell short it was likely soon to be discovered.

† William Biles was the grandson of William Biles, a Quaker, who came from Dorsetshire, England, in 1680, and settled in Bucks County, Penna. The grandfather was for six years, between 1694 and 1711, a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly. His father, William (the second), was a member in 1721, 1722, 1723 and 1724. In the latter year he was its Speaker.

He was a large land-owner. His son Benjamin, who married SarahStevenson, lived in Middletown Township, Bucks County, Penna.; he was Register and Recorder of that county from 1721 to 1724; Trustee of the Loan Office in 1743, and a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly continuously from 1738 to 1745.

No. 7. WILLIAM STEVENSON (Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born in 1676, at Newtown, Long Island. The first record of him in New Jersey is on an old map of Burlington, in 1696, upon which is marked in his name a lot on the river-front, on the fourth block below High Street, containing one acre and five perches.

The next we learn about him is from the Records of the Flushing, L. I., Friends' Meeting under date of 2 day, 9 mo., 1699. The Minutes state, that † "Wm. Stevenson Sent to Desire of this meeting a Sartificate of his conversation and clearance from all women in relation to Marrage, and this meeting hath appoynted John Roadman to draw it, and if need require it sign it in behalf of ye meetting." In pursuance of his efforts towards matrimony according to the Ritual of Friends, we find on the Minutes of the Monthly Meeting, held at Chesterfield, Burlington County, 7 day, 10 mo., 1699, the following viz.: "William Stevenson desires a certificate from the meeting on account of the marriage of Friends." meeting house was the nearest one to his father's (Thomas Stevenson) newly purchased land, he was probably at that time living on Doctor's Creek, in the adjoining township of Nottingham. The result of these efforts is told on the Minutes of the Burlington Monthly Meeting for the succeeding month, for on "1 day, 11 mo., 1699," William Stevenson and Ann Jenings a second time declared their intention to marriage, "he producing certificates from Long Island and Chesterfield." The ceremony was performed at Burlington. November 16, 1699, at the same time that Sarah Jenings. sister to Ann, married Edward Penington, William Penn was present and signed the certificate * as one of the witnesses.

William Stevenson began his land purchases shortly afterwards. On October 11, 1701, he and Benjamin Field, together bought of "Sarah Welch of Philadelphia, widow of William Welch, late merchant of London, first, one Propriety except 20,000 acres; second, one half a Propriety except Gloucester Town and town lots." Out of this, these two men located about 10,000 acres above the Falls of the Delaware (now Trenton), "in the new purchase, or third hundred, being part of the Indian plantation of Caponoken." Benjamin Field, in 1701, sold 1000 acres of this (it resurveyed 1700 acres) to Charity Stevenson, of Newtown, Long Island, aunt to William Stevenson, This tract, originally in Burlington County, was in that part of it set off as Hunterdon County. It formed a large part of Amwell Township, which was erected by a patent dated June 27, 1708. It was called after a parish of that name about eighteen miles from London, in Hertfordshire, England. The ancient register of Amwell Church is still preserved. It

"1601, Mrs. Bridget Stevenson, an anntient Widdowe, was buried from Mr. John Goodmans of Hodsdon End, and layd on the North syde of ye great stone in the chancell October IXth, underneath the square wyght stone."

Isabell Goodman, the last of those that died, deceased the 31 daye of February 1628 who by her will ordered this memorial. So they sleep in the Lord awaiting the Resurrection."

The next year William Stevenson bought his homestead. The deed is dated April 15, 1702, and recites that William Stevenson, of Northampton Township, Burlington County, buys of Samuel Jenings, of Burlington, for £900, "all that plantation called Green Hill in Northampton Township; 525 acres as it is laid, also 480 acres lying north within the town bounds of Burlington and the remaining part of the said 480 acres adjoining lands already laid forth, beginning," etc. This appears to have been Governor Jenings' country home.

William Stevenson located another survey of land, February 21, 1716, of 820 acres on the branches of the Raritan River.

Like his brother Thomas he seems to have sold these outlying lands and his "Rights" to other parties, usually actual settlers, for small homesteads.

He was elected a member of the Council of Proprietors of West Jersey in 1711. He also represented Burlington County in the first New Jersey Assembly, which met at Perth Amboy in 1703, after the union of the Provinces of East and West Jersey in the year previous.

A census of Northampton Township, Burlington County, was taken in 1709. It contained 42 families, among them being that of William Stevenson, whose age is given as 33; also Ann Stevenson, age 24; Jenings Stevenson, age 8; Elizabeth, age 5, and 3 Indian servants.

William Stevenson's will* is dated in Northampton Township, April 24, 1724, and was probated June 2d of that year. It divided his property among his children. His widow Ann (nee Jenings) appears to have married a second time, as the Minutes of Chesterfield Friends' Meeting record on 5 day, 2 mo., 1731, that †Thomas Lambert, of Chesterfield, a second time declared his intention to marry Ann Stevenson, a widow with children. She was his fourth wife.

The children of William and Ann (Jenings) Stevenson were:

XXVII. Jenings, born 1701; died without issue between 1724 and 1736.

XXVIII. William, born—; married Sarah Kemble, daughter of Benjamin, April 23, 1740. He died in 1746, and his widow took out letters of administration on November 1st of that year, and married Joseph Antrim, September 29, 1749. William Stevenson left two sons, Jenings and Joseph Stevenson. The former (Jenings) married December 18, 1766, Sarah Alexander in Old Swedes Church, Philadelphia, and died in 1784, leaving three sons, William, who died young; Caleb, who died in 1809, and Samuel, who died in 1819. Joseph Stevenson, son of William and Sarah (Kemble) Stevenson, married Dovey Webb—marriage license dated March 29, 1769.

† Margaret Lambert, an unmarried daughter of Thomas Lambert, in her will, in 1746, bequeaths a legacy to "Peggy Stevenson." Achsah Lambert, her sister, who died unmarried in 1791, mentions her relations, William Stevenson, brother to Margaret Stevenson, and calls the latter cousin.

XXIX. Thomas, married Experience Cheshire, daughter of Benjamin; marriage license dated September 17, 1733. He inherited 300 acres of "Rights," which he located in Bethlehem Township, Hunterdon County, where he was living in 1736. A daughter, Elizabeth Stevenson, is mentioned in Benjamin Cheshire's will in 1740.

XXX. John, married Sarah, daughter of John Carter, of Gloucester County, New Jersey. He lived at Gloucester and died in 1748, and his widow (Sarah) took out letters of administration on his estate on May 10th of that year. He left no issue. On July 10, 1750, Sarah Stevenson took out a license to marry Jonas Cattell.

XXXI. Elizabeth, * born 1704, married — Osborne. It is believed that he died, and his widow (Elizabeth) married William Prosser and had issue: William Prosser,† born 14 day, 3 mo., 1734, married Mary Deacon, August 10, 1762, whose children's names indicate their ancestry, viz.: William Stevenson Prosser, born 10 day, 3 mo., 1764; Ann Prosser, born 6 day, 7 mo., 1766; Uriah Prosser, born 8 day, 11 mo., 1768; Elizabeth Prosser, born 14 day, 8 mo., 1771, married — Owen; Benjamin Prosser, born 6 day, 10 nio., 1774, married Deborah Herbert; Mary Prosser, born 26 day, 8 mo., 1776, married — Howell; John Prosser, born 17 day, 10 mo., 1781; Martha Prosser, married — Brown.

XXXII. Mary, died unmarried in Northampton Township. Her will‡ is dated February 8, 1775, and probated February 13, 1777. It names her cousins (nieces and nephews), Mary, wife of William Prosser; Joseph Stevenson, and Jenings Stevenson's three children—William, Samuel and Caleb.

John Steermen

No. 8. JOHN STEVENSON (Thomas², Thomas¹), was the youngest son of Thomas and Elizabeth (Lawrence) Stevenson, and was born in Newtown, Long Island, about 1678. He probably removed from Newtown to his father's land on Doctor's Creek, Nottingham Township, Burlington County, N. J., some time after his brother William's marriage (1699), for we find in the Minute Book of the Chesterfield Meeting, the nearest Friends' house of worship to these lands, an entry dated 7 day, 1 mo., 1705-6, that "John Stevenson desired a clearance on account of marriage." This was followed by his declaration a second time, in the Burlington Monthly Meeting 6 day, 3 mo., 1706, of his intention to marry Mercy Jenings, daughter of Samuel.

It was some time before John Stevenson got his title to his homestead. The deed * is dated November 5, 1712, and recites that "Thomas Stevenson of Newtown, Long Island," conveys to "John Stevenson, of Nottingham Township, Burlington County," N. J., for the consideration of £250, one thousand acres on Doctor's Creek, and "on the province Line," "adjoining Matthew Grange," etc. Although the son paid the father in money for the land, the relationship is clearly set out in a subsequent † deed, in which John Stevenson sells off part of the tract, and in which document is the following sentence: "Whereas, Thomas Stevenson, of Long Island, father of John, sold 1000 acres to John Stevenson." Afterwards the title is explained.

John Stevenson remained on his plantation until the death of his wife Mercy, t which took place between 1720 and 1724. His second marriage occurred in the latter year. The Minutes of the meeting held at Chesterfield I day, 8 mo., 1724, record that "John Stevenson and Margaret Wood, both belonging to this meeting, declared their intention of taking each other in marriage, whereupon this meeting appoints our Friends John Tantum and John Abbott to make inquiry of his clearance from all others on account of marriage and make report to our next monthly meeting." On 5 day, 9 mo., 1724, John Stevenson a second time declared his intention to marry Margaret Wood. The birth of the latter is recorded in Chesterfield Meeting under the date of 26 day, 10 mo., 1693. She was the daughter of William and Mary Wood, of Leicestershire, England, who came to Burlington, New Jersey, in 1677, on Flie-boat "Martha," from Hull, in the former country. At the time of his daughter's marriage William Wood lived in Hopewell.

On November 20, 1720, Mercy Stevenson signs, with her husband John, a deed to John Yorts for 163 acres of his plantation on the Province Line. Liber X, p. 94.

After his second marriage John Stevenson did not remain long on Doctor's Creek. He had previously sold part of his plantation, but on October 10, 1727, his wife Margaret joins him in a conveyance "to Thomas Betts, late of Newtown, Long Island," for "all that plantation whereon he now liveth on the north side of Doctor's Creek," bounded by land of Benjamin Robbins, Joseph Brittain and Nathaniel Stevenson.* It was probably the influence of his wife's family that induced him to purchase, one week afterwards, October 17, of Daniel Smith, 200 acres in Hunterdon County, on the west side of the road from Quakertown to Ringoes, two miles south of the former village. † For neighbors he had his nephew, Samuel Stevenson, son of his brother Thomas, and Jacob Doughty, whose wife was his second cousin.

While this removal from Burlington to Hunterdon County seems a trivial circumstance, it had much to do historically with the founding of the first Friends' Meeting in New Jersey north of the Falls of the Delaware (Trenton). Jacob Doughty. more of whom will be related hereafter, who had lived in Burlington County and had attended the Chesterfield Meeting with John Stevenson, also moved up into Hunterdon County and had purchased, February 12, 1728, of Ann Stevenson, widow, and John Stevenson, Executors of William Stevenson (brother of John), 136 acres of land. He afterwards bought more land. Prof. J. W. Moore and Mrs. Mary C. Vail, in their sketches of the Quakertown Friends' Meeting in the The Jerseyman, 1 say an application was made from this neighborhood on 4 day, 10 mo., 1729, to the Friends at Chesterfield for permission to establish a Monthly Meeting. This was followed four years later by the donation of a lot for a meeting house.

Jacob Doughty, who was acknowledged as a "Minister among Friends,"§ on March 30, 1733, conveyed to Samuel Large, Samuel Willson, John Stevenson, Edward Rockhill and Joseph King, as trustees, four acres of land for the use of a meeting house. Of these trustees Edward Rockhill had a sister married to John Stevenson's half-brother Nathaniel.

The settlement of Hunterdon County, from a religious point of view, is exceedingly interesting. The land was held at first by Proprietors in England, who were Ouakers. They divided and sold part of it among a few of their own sect— William Penn, Benjamin Field, the Stevensons and others. 1680. Dr. Daniel Coxe, of London, had secured enough interest in West Jersey lands to be the largest Proprietor, and to become its Governor. In 1691 he organized the famous West Jersey Society, a land company that controlled several hundred thousand acres of Jersey land. It located part of its "Rights" in Burlington, afterwards Hunterdon County, covering a large part of the northern portion of the latter. Dr. Coxe, who controlled the company, was an adherent of the English Church and not over friendly to the Quakers. The company at once began to sell their lands to actual settlers, the first deed for a tract above the Falls of the Delaware being given on February 10, 1695, to Thomas Green for 105 acres. * The Quakers, as a rule, held aloof from buying these lands, and they passed into the hands of members of other denominations, About 1727, there appears to have been a concerted effort on the part of the leaders of the Quakers to carry their faith into the new territory in the upper section of Hunterdon County, which resulted in the founding of the Quakertown Meeting.

In December, 1739,† John Stevenson was appointed a "Justice of the Quorum" for Hunterdon County. Associated with him were Andrew Smith, Abraham Vanhorne, John Vansickland, Thomas Cadwalader, William Atlee and Daniel Doughty. This office was an intermediary one between "Justices of the Pleas (Judges) and Justices of the Peace." They were recommended by the Council, a body similar to the present State Senate, and appointed this year by the Governor for all the counties except Monmouth and Gloucester. These officials seem to have been created by an Act of Assembly approved December 4, 1739, entitled "An Act for the trial and punishment of persons guilty of larceny under the value of twenty shillings" whereby any two such Magistrates of any county, city or town corporate were created a court for the disposal of such cases.

John Stevenson died intestate in 1744, his wife Margaret taking out letters of administrations on his estate on September 14th of that year. * She sold all the plantation, except the dwelling-house and about fifty acres, on March 20, 1749, to Henry Farnsworth. The deed recites that it was bounded by the lands of Jacob Doughty, Matthias Vanhorn and Jeremiah Williams. On 5 day, 5 mo., 1753, Margaret Stevenson and her daughter Mary, took a certificate of removal from the Bethlehem (Quakertown) Meeting to that of Chesterfield, in Burlington County, The date of her death is not recorded.

The children of John Stevenson by his first wife, Mercy Jenings, were:

XXXIV. Thomas, born 1707; married Sarah Whitehead.

XXXV. John, married Martha Walton.

XXXVI. Samuel.

XXXVII. Ann, married Daniel Doughty.†

XXXVIII. Abigail, married Peter Schmuck.

XXXIX. Mercy, married Benjamin Williams.

The children by his second wife, Margaret Wood, were:

XL. William, married Mary Bunting.

XLI. Susannah, married William Newbold.

XLII. Mary, died unmarried, 11 day, 7 mo., 1818.

† Daniel Doughty, son of Jacob Doughty, was a great-grandson of Rev. Francis Doughty, one of the most eccentric and picturesque figures in early colonial times. Francis Doughty was the son of a merchant in Bristol, England, and the brother-inlaw of Governor Stone of Maryland. He was educated for the Church, but cast in his lot with the Puritans and emigrated to America. We find him located at Cohasset (1636-39), now Taunton, Massachusetts. Here he got into a dispute with the elders on the subject of infant baptism, and pressed his views so vehemently that he and his wife and children were banished. He fled to Rhode Island and from thence joined one of the first English colonies that settled among the Dutch on Long Island. He became the pastor of the little community that settled at Mezpatkill, afterwards Newtown. This settlement was broken up by the Indians in 1643; the remnant of the colony, with Mr. Doughty, fled to New Amsterdam, where he preached in the church in the fort. He made a claim for the colonists' land at Mezpatkill as his own, which was disputed and decided against him in 1647, but he was allowed the land he had in possession. Appealing from this decision, the Dutch Director, General Kieft, fined him ten guelders and locked him up in prison for twenty-four hours. Upon his release Mr. Doughty applied for permission to go to Holland or the West Indies, but this was refused. He had accepted a call from the Congregational Church at Flushing, Long Island, where he preached during 1646 and 1647. Here again he got into trouble by denouncing the authorities, so that Capt. John Underhill, who was then living in that town, locked the doors of the church against him. Mr. Doughty, leaving his three children behind him, in 1648, emigrated to Maryland. There he appears to

NATHANIEL STEVENSON.

No. 10. NATHANIEL STEVENSON (Thomas², Thomas¹), was the half-brother of the three Stevensons previously sketched as having married the three daughters of Gov. Samuel Jenings. He was born at Newtown, Long Island, about 1685, and was brought up in the faith of the Friends. His father, Thomas Stevenson (second) conveyed to him part of the land he had purchased on Doctor's Creek, Burlington County, New Jersey. The deed does not appear to have been recorded, or else the record was lost, therefore the number of acres in it is not exactly known; but as it joined his brother John's plantation of 1000 acres, it was most likely nearly the same size.

On the Minutes of the Chesterfield Monthly Meeting we find the following entry: "At a Monthly Meeting of Friends held at their meeting house in Chesterfield ye 3rd of ye 1 mo. 1708-9, Nathaniel Stevenson son of Thomas Stevenson of Long Island and Mary Rockhill daughter of Edward Rockhill, both belonging to this meeting declared their Intention of taking each other in marriage, and he produced a certificate from the Monthly Meeting of Flushing on said Island concerning his clearness from all others there. This meeting have changed his religion and returned to the English Church, and became the Rector of Sittingbourne Parish in Virginia. While officiating here he baptized, in 1659, the eldest son of John Washington, grandfather of George Washington. Here also he got into difficulties for denying the supremacy of the King, contrary to the canons of the church. Rev. Francis Doughty had three children: A daughter, Mary Doughty, married, in 1645, Dr. Adrian Vander-Donck, a prominent Dutch clergyman. The latter, in 1648, obtained a grant for a bouery (plantation) on Flushing Bay; subsequently he relinquished it and returned to Holland, where he died in 1655. Thomas Stevenson (the first) secured the patent to Vander-Donck's bouery. Mary Vander-Donck, after her husband's death, returned to America and married Hugh O'Neale, and emigrated to Maryland. One son of Rev. Francis Doughty, Francis, junior, married the widow of Rev. John Moore, pastor of the church at Newtown, Long Island, and lived at first in the parish house. Upon the election of a new minister he refused to leave it, but was ordered out by Director-General Stuyvesant, in 1661. Elias Doughty, the other son of Rev. Francis, lived in Flushing. Elias was the grandfather of Daniel Doughty.

appoints John Abbott and Harmenias King to make inquiry as usual and make report to our next Monthly Meeting." The date of the marriage is not noted.

Mary Rockhill was the daughter of Edward and Mary Rockhill, Quakers, who emigrated from Aldingflete, Yorkshire, England, in 1686. They settled in Mansfield Square, Chesterfield Township, Burlington County, N. J. Mary Rockhill's (Stevenson) birth is recorded in the Minutes of Friends at this place on 3 day, 9 mo., 1688.

Nathaniel Stevenson officiated as Constable, as we find in the records of the session of Court held at Mt. Holly in 1718 the following, viz.: "Ordered by this Court that Nathaniel Stevenson, Constable of Nottingham Township pay the *** for not appearing after being called three times."

Nathaniel Stevenson left no issue. His will,* which was dated June 5, 1736, and probated August 30 the same year, is remarkable inasmuch as it fixes the relationship of his brothers, a sister, and some of his nieces and nephews. In it he leaves bequests to "nephew John, son of brother John;" to "brother Daniel; " to "nephew William, † eldest son of brother William;" to "Samuel, eldest son of brother Thomas, 20s; to nephew William, eldest son of brother Daniel, 20s; to Thomas, eldest son of brother John, 20s; to James, eldest son of brother Stephen, 20s; to Nathaniel, son of brother Stephen, 20s; to Nathaniel Thorne, son of sister Anne Thorne, £5; and to niece Mary, daughter of brother John, when she shall arrive at the age of eighteen, one feather bed, value £5." His real estate was thus bequeathed: "To nephew John son of brother John, one half the plantation whereon I live being 300 acres; having already made him a deed for the other 200 acres." A life interest to his wife in one-half of the other only excepted, and "if he should die without lawful issue and married, then his widow shall enjoy the said plantation so long as she is his widow, reserving one half to my dear wife, and after John is married or deceased, I give to John's children the remaining 300 acres; but if my nephew John should have issue then I give my said plantation to my nephew John's children;" also:

 $\dagger\,\mathrm{This}\,\mathrm{shows}$  that Jenings Stevenson, eldest son of William and Ann (Jenings) Stevenson, was dead.

"To my wife and nephew John, all my back lands lying in two tracks, one 150 acres, the other 100 acres lying in company with 100 acres of brother John's to be holden by them, their heirs and assigns forever."

Letters of administration were taken out on the estate of Mary Stevenson by Robert Rockhill on June 30, 1738.

DANIEL STEVENSON.

No. 11. Daniel Stevenson (Thomas², Thomas¹) was born in 1692. He remained on Long Island. He was Assessor in Newtown in 1711, Captain of the Newtown Troop in 1715, and Commissioner of Highways in 1721. He married Elizabeth Willett, in Grace Church, Jamaica, Long Island, May 29, 1711. By this marriage he lost his membership in the Society of Friends. Elizabeth Willett was the daughter of Colonel Thomas* and Helena Stoothoff Willett, of Flushing, one of the most prominent public men of the colony of New York. He died in Flushing in 1754.

Daniel and Elizabeth (Willett) Stevenson's children were, as far as known:

XLIII. William, called the oldest son in Nathaniel Stevenson's will in 1736.

XLIV. John.

STEPHEN STEVENSON.

No. 12. STEPHEN STEVENSON (Thomas², Thomas¹) never removed to New Jersey. He lived at first in his native town, Newtown, Long Island, where he was Assessor in 1729. Afterwards he removed to Rye, Westchester County, N. Y., in which place his will † is dated, October 16, 1731. His wife was Jane Clement, daughter of James and Sarah (Hinchman) Clement, of Flushing. Her grandfather, also named James, was an early Quaker settler in the latter town. He wrote the

Stephen and Jane Stevenson's children were:

Stevenson's will of 1736 as the oldest son. He lived at
Rye. His will * is dated in 1769. Had issue: John Stevenson; James Stevenson; Nathaniel Stevenson, born 1752,

XLVII. Abigail, married in "Friend's Meeting," Harrison, Westchester County, N. Y., 17 day, 9 mo., 1742, Benjamin, son of Richard and Hannah (Thorne) Cornell, of the Manor of Scarsdale. His will† is dated March 26, 1763, and was probated August 21, 1771. The widow survived him. Their children were Stephen, Benjamin, both under age at the date of the will, Hannah, Jane Deborah, Ann Phoebe and Abigail; the two last were minors.

XLVIII. Anne died t unmarried in 1753.

SUSANNAH STEVENSON,

No. 13. Susannah Stevenson (Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born 12 day, 5 mo., 1694. She married Thomas Betts, of Newtown, born 22 day, 5 mo., 1689. Their children were:

Anne, born 14 day, 10 mo., 1714.
Thomas, born 1 day, 9 mo., 1716; died young.
John, born 15 day, 7 mo., 1718.

ISRAEL HONEYWELL, Surrogate."

Susannah Betts died 23 day, 1 mo., 1723. Soon after the death of his first wife, Thomas Betts * (about 1725) married, out of Meeting, Susanna, born 14 day, 11 mo., 1704, daughter of Nathaniel and Patience (Bull) Field, who on "ye 14, ye 7 mo., 1730," made the following acknowledgment of her error, the original of which is pasted on page 38 of Chesterfield, N. J., Friends' Records.

"To the Monthly Meeting of Women Friends in Chesterfield:"

"friends it hath been a long time in my mind to acquaint you with my desire to be in unity with you, I being Sensible that the way of my marrying was Contrary to the discipline established amongst you which has been a great Example to my mind, now desiring the unity and fellowship of those that follow Christ I conclude with Love." "Susanna Berts."

This appearance in New Jersey is explained by a deed † dated October 10, 1727, which recites that "John and Margaret Stevenson of the County of Burlington," N. J., convey to "Thomas Betts, late of Newtown, Long Island, all that plantation where he now liveth on the north side of Doctor's Creek," containing 400 acres.

Thomas Betts died of small pox 31 day, 3 mo., 1747, having previously made his will which is dated 6 day, 4 mo., of the same year, and was probated 23 day, 2 mo., 1747. It begins, "I, Thomas Betts, of the township of Newtown, County of Bucks, and Province of Pennsylvania;" it leaves special bequests to some of his children, but finally gives the residue of his estate "to my dearly and well beloved wife to dispose of among mine and her children, to wit: Patience Betts, Richard Betts, Mercy Betts, Zachariah Betts, Miriam Betts and William Betts." "To my first wife's children, to wit: Thomas Betts, John Betts, Stephen Betts and Susannah Field."

Of these children Zachariah Betts, born in 1736, married first in 1764, Rachael Bye, and had issue: Jesse Betts, who

ANN STEVENSON.

No. 14. ANN STEVENSON (Thomas², Thomas¹) married Samuel Thorne † 10 day, 9 mo., 1715. The latter was the son of Joseph and Martha (Bowne) Thorne, of Flushing, and was born 12 day, 5 mo., 1696. The family remained on Long Island, but several of Samuel Thorne's uncles removed to New Jersey and became large land-owners and slave-holders.

Samuel and Ann Thorne's children were:

Joseph, born 19 day, 2 mo., 1717. Thomas, born 11 day, 7 mo., 1719. Nathaniel, born 14 day, 11 mo., 1720-21. Samuel, born 3 day, 8 mo., 1723.

CHAPTER V.

A Farmon

No. 15. JOHN STEVENSON (Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was the son of Edward and Charity (Field) Stevenson, of Newtown. Long Island. He was born about 1682. Being the oldest son he took the place of his father, after the latter's death, in 1700. He was Commissioner of Highways in his native town in 1703, Assessor in 1705, and Town Clerk from 1706 to 1708. he closed out the interest of his father's estate in the fulling mill. He invested in New Jersey lands and seems at first to have thought of settling there, as on May 4, 1704, he bought of his cousin. William Stevenson, one-half (480 acres) of the Governor Jenings' plantation of Green Hill, it being that part of it which lay within the town bounds of Burlington, but in a few years (1709) he transferred the title to his brother Elnathan Stevenson. He also bought some smaller plantations in Mansfield Township, in the same county of Burlington, and located some surveys elsewhere. His largest purchase was a tract of 2100 acres in Amwell Township, Hunterdon County, being part of the survey that William Stevenson and Benjamin Field had made there as previously mentioned. The deed * is dated October 12, 1712. This land he bequeathed to his sons.

John Stevenson removed from Newtown to Westchester County, New York, in 1710, in which year he bought 311 acres of Charles Morgan at Throg's Neck.* There was a ferry attached to this place and it therefore lay in the route of travel from the main land to Long Island. Thomas Chalkley, a celebrated Quaker preacher and missionary, in his journal, writes, under date of December, 1725, that, after holding a meeting at Rye and Mamaroneck, "From thence we travelled to Westchester, and had a meeting there on sixth day of the week, intending to go over the ferry next day to Long Island, but the wind being high and boisterous we could not go over; we tarried three nights at the house of John Stephenson, where we were lovingly and generously entertained."

John Stevenson served as Commissioner of Highways in 1722 and 1723. He died 2 day, 3 mo., 1728. He married Abigail, daughter of — and Mary Perkins, of Flushing. His will is dated February 7, 1727, and was probated in 1728. In it he names his wife Abigail, sons Edward, James, John and Benjamin—the three last minors; daughters Mary Jones, wife of Evin Jones; Charity and Abigail, and mother-in-law, Mary Perkins, deceased. His executors were his "uncles"—Robert Field, Jonathan Whitehead and Col. William Willett.

John and Abigail Stevenson's children were:

James, who lived in Monmouth County, New Jersey. He and his two younger brothers inherited the Amwell land of their father, John Stevenson. One deed † of sale, bearing date June 1, 1743, recites that "James Stevenson of Shrewsbury, Monmouth County, New Jersey," and "John Stevenson of Flushing, Long Island," convey to William Kase 400 acres in Amwell, out of 2100 acres that "John Stevenson by will recorded in New York divided among three sons, James, John and Benjamin." If one dies under 21 years of age his share was to go to the others. "Benjamin deceased and his share descended to his oldest brother Edward," but on January 2, 1742, the latter deeded it to his brothers James and John. These last-named brothers purchased "Rights" both in East and West Jersey, which they located from time to time and sold the land to actual settlers. James Stevenson served as Sheriff of Monmouth County, his recognizance being filed in the office at Perth Amboy, November 23, 1739.‡ His will is

Their children were: Gilbert Willett, married Martha Oakley in 1761; Benjamin, born May 10, 1740; Anastasia, married Thomas McElworth, October 3, 1760; Capt. John, born 1744, died in Philadelphia, February 2, 1791; Mary; Isaac, born June 8, 1750; Anna, married William Bartow, born 1759; and Euphemia Willett.
- LV. Charity, married Thomas, son of Isaac and Elizabeth Hicks, about 1740. They lived at Middletown, Monmouth County, N. J. Thomas Hicks in his will * advises his wife and sons to consult with their uncle, James Stevenson, of Middletown, in settling the estate. Their children were: George Hicks, Evan Hicks, Abigail Hicks and Oliver Hicks, who married Catherine Cook, and had issue: Oliver Hicks, who married Jane Conolly; and Abigail Hicks, who married Stephen S. Tallman. The marriage license for Oliver Hicks, of Middletown, to marry Catherine Cook, of Shrewsbury, is dated March 10, 1775; George Rapelyea of the former place being the bondsman.

ELNATHAN STEVENSON.

No. 16. ELNATHAN STEVENSON (Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of Edward and Charity (Field) Stevenson, of Newtown, Long Island, was born about 1685. His father having deceased in 1700, his mother remained a widow until her death in 1724. On November 4, 1701, "Charity Stevenson, of Queens County, Long Island," bought of Benjamin Field 1000 acres "above the Falls of the Delaware," afterwards Amwell Township, Hunterdon County, N. J. On January 24, 1704, Charity Stevenson conveys 500 acres of this tract to "my beloved son Elnathan Stevenson." † The deed was acknowledged before a Justice in Queens County, Long Island. The son was not of age at this time, but it is an illustration of a curious transaction not infrequent in colonial days in New Jersey, wherein parents executed deeds of land to junior sons who were not of age; thus making provisions for them in the future, as otherwise the oldest son, under the English law, inherited all the real estate. If there was a will to the contrary, this son held a lien on the title which could only be perfected by the purchaser of the land buying out the right of "the heir-at-law."

Elnathan Stevenson never lived on this land, but bequeathed it to his children. His brother, John Stevenson, as before-mentioned, having purchased in 1704, one-half the plantation of Green Hill of Gov. Samuel Jenings (480 acres), in the town bounds of Burlington, conveyed the title to his brother Elnathan, September 17, 1709. Part of this land remains to this day in the possession of the latter's descendants of the name and has led to the mistaken belief that they were lineal descendants of Governor Jenings. Elnathan Stevenson lived and died on this plantation. His will * is dated at Burlington, September 11, 1748, and was probated December 4th the same year. In it he bequeaths to his son Elnathan, the plantation where he lives, if his widow marries, or the son arrives at 21 years; "to son Cornel, 250 acres of land in Hunterdon County, as it is surveyed and divided from my tract adjoining to a lot formerly conveyed to his brother Thomas, with the dwelling-house that was built by Phillip Phillips; to son Edward, 250 acres in said Hunterdon County, adjoining my son Cornel's, if he arrives at 21 years; to son Benjamin, if he arrives at 21 years, 160 acres to be laid off from where I now dwell."

Elnathan Stevenson married, about 1715, Sarah, daughter of Richard and Sarah Cornell of Flushing, Long Island, who were enumerated in 1698 as residents of Flushing, with a family composed of children: Richard, Sarah, Elizabeth, Mary; and six negro servants. In 1711, both Richard and his son of the name paid tithes, in provisions, in Flushing. Richard Cornell's grandfather, Thomas Cornell, (born in 1595), with his wife Rebecca, nee Briggs, emigrated from Essex, England, to Boston, in 1635, where he lived two years, and from there removed to Portsmouth, Rhode Island, where he resided four years. He received from Director-General Kieft, of New Netherlands, on July 26, 1646, a grant of land near Westchester, which he called, "Cornell's Neck." From the report of a law suit between his heirs and the Pells we learn that he removed to this place and improved the land. After some years, having given offence to the Indians they burnt his house, whereupon he went back to Portsmouth, where he died in 1655-6. It further appears from this dispute that Thomas Cornell's widow, as executrix of his will, conveyed Cornell's Neck to her oldest daughter, Sarah, and her sister. This daughter Sarah, (having married first, Thomas Willett), after her second marriage to Charles Bridges, conveyed the property to her oldest son, William Willett, who obtained a new patent for it, April 19, 1667, and thereafter it bore the name of Willett's Neck.

One of the emigrant Thomas Cornell's sons, was Richard, born in 1630, who appears in Flushing. He was sent from this town to New Amsterdam, in 1663, to make arrangements for the payment of tithes*. Next, Richard Cornell was elected, from that town, a member of the New York Assembly that met at Hempstead, Long Island, in March, 1664-5. In the will of Edward Jesop, of West Farms, Westchester County, signed on August 1, 1666, he appoints "my friends Sarah Bridges and Mr. Richard Cornhill, Justice of the Peace," two of his overseers. Richard Cornell subsequently removed from Flushing to Rockaway, Long Island, at which place his will † is dated November 7, 1693. It was probated October 30, 1694. In this instrument he appoints his wife Elizabeth, executrix, and his sons "Richard and William, and Col. Thomas Willett, Lt.Col. Thomas Hicks and Capt. Daniel Whitehead, overseers,"

Elnathan and Sarah Stevenson's children were:

LVI. Thomas, born June 14, 1719.

LVII. Cornel, born 10 day, 12 mo., 1724-25.

LVIII. Elnathan, born June 24, 1729.

LIX. Edward, born April 3, 1739.

LX. Benjamin, born July 31, 1741.

LXI. Sarah, born November 20, 1721. She declared her intention a second time in Burlington Monthly Meeting on 7 day, 4 mo., 1742, to marry Joseph Hedger. The marriage took LXII. Charity, born November 21, 1723. The marriage license to marry William Pettit of Evesham, Burlington County, is dated February 17, 1746-47. The latter was a descendant of an early settler of that name in Newtown, Long Island. He was made on September 22, 1748, administrator to the estate of his brother-in-law, Thomas Stevenson, who had just died on his plantation in Amwell, Hunterdon County, and whose oldest son was but 7 years old. He appeared to have lived on the place for a time, but subsequently he located near Coryell's Ferry, (New Hope) Bucks County Penna. He was Captain of the first military company raised in that vicinity. William and Charity Pettit's children were: William, born November 7, 1748; Daniel, Elnathan, Samuel, John, Sarah, Elizabeth and Charity. His wife Charity dying he married a second one, Lydia ——.

LXIII. Ann, born July 11, 1727, took license to marry John Norcross, October 4, 1756. The latter was a grandson of William and Elizabeth Norcross, of Barton, England, who with four children arrived in the Delaware River in 1699. John Norcross' father, also named William, married Rebecca Petty, April 30, 1720. John and Ann Norcross' children were: Susanna, born September 1, 1759; Abigail, born October 16, 1758; Elijah, born September, 1760, and John, born July 8, 1763.

LXIV. Elizabeth, born October 17, 1733, took license to marry Aaron Carman, April 7, 1759.

No. 17. WILLIAM STEVENSON (Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of Edward and Charity (Field) Stevenson, of Newtown, Long Island, was born between 1690 and 1700. He remained with his widowed mother in his native place until her decease in 1724. He was Assessor there in 1723, and during part of 1724; but toward the close of this year he appears in Burlington, New Jersey. In the Trenton, N. J., Book of Deeds AF, p. 498, is recorded a release dated October 17, 1724, which says: "I, John Stevenson of Westchester, New York;" "for love of Brother William of the township of Burlington, county of Burlington, release all my rights in a tract of 500 acres, it being one half part of that 1000 acres which my mother Charity bought of Benjamin Field November 4, 1704." William Stevenson was then probably staying with his brother Elnathan.

The release deed was necessitated by the English law of primogeniture, whereby the oldest son inherited the title to all the real estate of his parents, notwithstanding a will to the contrary. The Quakers favored the equal distribution of land among their sons; daughters rarely being bequeathed any real property if they had brothers. This is shown in the present case. On October 10, 1753, William Stevenson had his share of the above land resurveyed by the Surveyor-General, which survey is duly recorded in Liber SC, p. 150, in his office in Burlington. It states that "Benjamin Field sold 1000 acres to Charity, widow and relict of Edward Stevenson, late of Long Island, deceased; Charity Stevenson made a will and devised it to her sons William and Elnathan." A partition was made between them November 8, 1726. The record proceeds to give the boundaries of William Stevenson's land, and says that instead of 500 acres, as originally surveyed, it contained 8151/2 acres, besides allowance for highways, usually fifty acres. To make good his title to the surplusage the entry notes that William Stevenson located 300 acres of "Rights," and bought 151/2 acres more of John Reading, who was a land agent in that neighborhood. The release of John Stevenson, the eldest son, to his brother William perfected the latter's title; while, as previously mentioned, the deed executed by the mother to Elnathan, the other brother, although a minor, was sufficient confirmation of his right to his share.

The record in the Surveyor-General's Office is corroborated by the deed* dated April 27, 1753, whereby "Mahlon Kirkbride of Makefield, Bucks County, Pennsylvania, yeoman," conveys to "William Stevenson of Yancoss, Westchester County, New York, yeoman," 300 acres out of a warrant from the Council of Proprietors, and also by the deed † from John Reading, dated April 13, the same year.

It appears from the above transactions that William Stevenson, after he had secured his share of his mother's estate in New Jersey by a division in 1726, returned to New York, locating at Yonkers, where his children were educated, and in which place some of them married before his return to his final home in New Jersey. ‡

William Stevenson married, in 1721, Hannah Hicks.

Hannah Hicks, born in 1704, was the daughter of Thomas and Deborah § (Whitehead) Hicks, of Flushing. Her emigrant ancestor was Robert Hicks, of London, England, Major Daniel Whitehead in his will (1703) bequeaths to "my daughter Deborah, wife of Thomas Hicks, my negro woman Mary, after the death of my wife." who emigrated to America in the ship "Fortune," which reached Plymouth, Massachusetts, on November 11, 1621. His wife Margaret arrived in the ship "Ann" in June of the following year. The family settled in Duxbury, Massachusetts. His son John, born 1609, was by a first wife, Elizabeth Morgan. He was left in England to be educated, but afterwards followed his father to the new world, reaching Weymouth, Massachusetts, in 1635, and settling in Newport, Rhode Island, in 1638. He joined the colony that founded Flushing, Long Island, and his name is among those to whom a patent was granted by Director-General Kieft, October 10, 1645. Afterwards he removed to Hempstead. He was elected by that town, in March, 1664-65, to the New York Assembly which enacted the "Duke's Laws." John Hicks children were by his first wife, Herodias Long. Late in life he married Florence, the widow of John Carman.

His only son, Thomas Hicks, was born in 1640, and lived to the age of 100 years. He was commissioned a Judge of the Court of Queens County in 1691. Jacob Leisler, the usurping governor of New York, issued a warrant on February 15, 1689, to arrest Thomas Dongan, Col. Thomas Willett, Capt. Thomas Hicks, Daniel Whitehead and Edward Antill, Esq., and to bring them before the Council. Thomas Hicks married, first, Mary, widow of John Washburn, and daughter of Richard Butler, of Stratford, Connecticut; second, Mary Doughty, in 1677.

Thomas Hicks, Junior, the father of Hannah Stevenson, was the oldest son by the first wife, Mary Washburn. He was born in 1667. He married Deborah, daughter of Major Daniel and Abigail (Stevenson) Whitehead, and died in 1712. His widow, Deborah, died the same year. In the latter's will, probated October 12, 1712, she leaves her daughter Hannah to "her cousins, Robert and Phœbe Field, to be brought up in the way of truth and fear of the Lord." This meant the doctrines of the Society of Friends, to which her husband and the Fields belonged, while the Whiteheads were adherents of the Church of England.*

SUSANNAH STEVENSON.

By this marriage the matrimonial connections of the Stevensons and Willetts became somewhat mixed. Susannah's sister, Charity Stevenson, was the second wife of her husband's father Col. Thomas Willett, so that her sister became her mother-in-law; while her brother John Stevenson's daughter Abigail, married her husband's nephew Thomas Willett of Westchester. But besides this, Susannah's sister-in-law Elizabeth Willett married the former's first cousin

Col. Thomas Willett took an active part in military affairs, and rose by promotion. He was a Lieutenant in 1673, a Major in 1685, and Colonel of a regiment of 1500 men in 1691-3, composed of foot and horse of Queens County militia. On August 26, 1688, he was commissioned Sheriff of his county. When Leisler usurped the government of New York in 1689, Colonel Willett took sides against him for which he was ordered under arrest. He served as a member of Governor Slaughter's Council from 1689 to 1691; a member of Governor Fletcher's Council from 1691 to 1693, and of Governor Bellemont's Council in 1698, from which latter position he was suspended. He was elected to the New York Assembly on 1711, and served as Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Queens County, from 1703 to 1723.

Col. Thomas Willett was a member and vestryman of Grace Church, Jamaica, L. I. During Lord Cornbury's administration as Governor of New York, he was summoned before him to explain the disputes between the congregation of that church and the Independents. Daniel Stevenson; thus she became sister-in-law and cousin to the same person.

Abraham Willett's will is dated December 10, 1756, and was probated March 18, 1757, in which he names his wife and children, and leaves his wife and sons, Abraham and Thomas, executors. The witnesses were Jonathan Willett, Charles Hedger and Thomas Hicks, Jr.

He lived in Bucks County, Penna., until after the death of his mother, when he removed, about 1737, into Bethlehem, afterwards Kingwood Township, Hunterdon County, N. J. His name is on the list of voters in this township under date of October, 1738. Being the oldest son he was his father's heir-at-law, and we find that certain purchasers of his father's real estate deemed it best to secure a release deed from the son after having purchased the land from the executors under the will. On February 7, 1755, William Henn obtains a release for £15. The deed says: * "Samuel Stevenson of Kingwood, Hunterdon County, N. J., eldest son and heir-at-law of Thomas Stevenson, late of Bucks County, in the Province of Pennsylvania, releases to William Henn, of Roxbury, Morris County, N. J., the plantation in Roxbury where he now dwells containing 300 acres, 50 acres being allowed for highways." On August 10, 1758, Joseph Pancoast obtains a similar release. †

Samuel Stevenson attended the Middletown Friends Meeting, in Bucks County, where the births of his children are recorded up to 1742. Subsequently he was connected with the Quakertown Meeting in Hunterdon County. In the Minutes of this Meeting is recorded, under date of 13 day, 7 mo., 1750, "Samuel Stevenson of the friends appointed to attend the last quarterly meeting (the other friend being sick could not attend) reports that he attended the same, and the quarterly meeting sent a copy of their minutes by him, whereby they confirmed the judgement of this meeting in affirming the place where the Meeting-house ought to be built at the Great Meadows."

Samuel Stevenson married in Abingdon, Pennsylvania, on 3 day, 8 mo., 1730, Elizabeth, daughter of Arthur ‡ and —— (Naylor) Searle. Their children § were:

LXXVIII. Rebecca, born 22 day, 6 mo., 1731. LXXIX. Thomas, born 25 day, 5 mo., 1733.

LXXX. Sarah, born 30 day, 8 mo., 1735.

‡ Arthur Searle was the son of Francis and Joan Searle, who settled in Bucks County, Penna., about 1697. He inherited his father's plantation of 300 acres in Bensalem Township. Afterwards he removed to Middletown Township. He died in 1737, his will being probated October 3, of that year.—Th. Maxwell Potts.

? The geneological records preserved in the branches of a family in the middle West, indicate that Samuel Stevenson had a younger son whose birth in 1751 is not in the Friends' Records. In the graveyard at Sennett, New York, are tombstones to Arthur Stevenson, who died November 1, 1821, aged 70 years, and his wife Rachael Stevenson, who died July 9, 1852, aged 92 years. The latter's maiden name was Rachael Yard, born January 12, 1760, married in Hunterdon County, New Jer-ey, before 1785.—MSS. of Mrs. Mary E. C. Zimmerman, Wooster, Ohio.

LXXXI. Jane, born 29 day, 1 mo., 1738.

LXXXII. Elizabeth, born 20 day, 6 mo., 1739, married Richard Mitchell, —, marriage license October 30, 1765. He was the son of John and Margaret (Stackhouse) Mitchell, and was born 18 day. 6 mo., 1739, and died 16 day, 1 mo., 1820, in the eightieth year of his age. His wife Elizabeth died 25 day, — mo., 1810. They lived in Middletown Township, Bucks County, and were members of the Society of Friends. Their children were: Elizabeth, born 22 day, 9 mo., 1766; Mary, born 7 day, 6 mo., 1768, died 11 mo., 1784; Margaret,* born 24 day, 7 mo., 1770, married Samuel Miller, Jr., —, 1792; Richard Mitchell, born 27 day, 4 mo., 1774; Susan and Ann (twins), born 9 day, 2 mo., 1776; John, born 26 day, 8 mo., 1781; Thomas, born 24 day, 10 mo., 1783, died 1 day, 11 mo., 1785.

He transferred his membership from the latter place to the Philadelphia Meeting, the certificate bearing date 6 day, 5 mo., 1756.

Senior and Elizabeth Biles, the latter being a daughter of the first William Biles. The Hughes' genealogy is given in No. XXIV. A petition was presented to Court on December 10, 1764, by the children of Matthew Hughes, Junior, deceased, viz.: Elizabeth Hughes; Matthew Hughes, Junior; George Hughes, Junior; Joshua Ely, Junior: Isaac and Hannah Hughes, and Andrew Ellicott, the widow, children, and "guardians of the minor children of Matthew Hughes, Junior, deceased, of Buckingham."—"Matthew, George, Elizabeth, wife of Joshua Ely, your petitioners, Isaac and Hannah being of full age, and Sarah, Humphrey, Mary, Thomas and Constantine, minors, your petitioners ask you to appoint Thomas Watson, John Wilkinson, Titus Fell, Alexander Brown and Thomas Leins to divide said lands and estimate the widow's dower or thirds thereon." *Lieut.-Col. John Wilkinson was the grandson of Captain Samuel Wilkinson, of Rhode Island, whose son, John, settled in Bucks County, Pennsylvania, about 1711. In this year the latter's son, Lieut.-Col. John Wilkinson was born at Wrightstown in that county. He became a prominent man in his native place. He represented his county in the Penusylvania Assembly in 1761 and 1762; and in 1763, was appointed a member of the committee to audit the accounts of Benjamin Franklin. He served as a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in 1764, 1770, 1773 and 1774. He was a member of the Committee of Safety and Committee of Correspondence for Bucks County, that had charge of local affairs preparing for the Revolutionary struggle, Lieut.-Col. John Wilkinson was also a member of the Constitutional Convention that met July 15, 1776; At the beginning of the War, he was appointed (August 10, 1775) Lieutenant-Colonel of the 3rd Bucks County Associators. He again became a Justice of the Court of Common Pleas in 1776, and once more a member of the Assembly in 1781 and 1782; dying in the latter year. Lieut.-Col. John Wilkinson's first wife, whom he married in 1740, was Mary, daughter of John Lacey. His children by Hannah Hughes were Martha, who married - Bennett; Ann Lacy, who married Gen. Samuel Smith: Hannah, who married Abner Reeder, May 22, 1796, and Elisha, who married, first, April 11, 1792, Anna Dungan, and, second, Maria Whiteman .- From the family papers of his great-great-grand son, Ogden Dungan Wilkinson, Philadelphia.

No. 34. Thomas Stevenson (John<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), the oldest son of John and Mercy (Jenings) Stevenson was born in 1707 or 1708. His grandfather Gov. Jenings dying in July of the latter year bequeathed him £50. He removed, with his father and stepmother, from Burlington to Hunterdon County in 1727. For a wife he went to Long Island and married, April 30, 1730, in Grace Church, Jamaica, Sarah Whitehead. The latter was the daughter of Jonathan Whitehead who married Sarah Field in 1703, and granddaughter of Major Daniel and Abigail (Stevenson) Whitehead. Sarah Whitehead, with her father and mother and seven brothers and sisters were baptized on the same day, April 18, 1713, by the Rev. Mr. Poyer, Rector of Grace Church, Jamaica, Long Island.

Thomas Stevenson by his marriage by a clergyman of the English Church lost his membership in the Friends' Meeting. Immediately on the death of his father, John Stevenson, he released to his stepmother, on Sept. 18, 1744, his right and title, as "oldest son and heir-at-law," to the homestead plantation. He settled on 326 acres on the north side of the "Musconetcong Hills" in Bethlehem Township, Hunterdon County. His name is on the poll list of voters of that township in 1738. He afterwards removed to Rocky Hill, Somerset County. We learn from the Pennsylvania Gazette of November 26, 1741, that his house was robbed, and as the advertisement gives an excellent idea of the personal outfit of a well-todo person of that period it is quoted entire: "Last night the house of Thomas Stevenson at Rocky Hill in Somerset County was robbed of the following things, viz.: one Double Doubloon and about Three Pounds in Jersey Paper Currency, and an old Pocket Book with sundry Notes and Paper in it, also one dark coloured Frize Coat lined with shaloon nearly of the same Colour, one black Crape Jacket lined with black shaloon, one pair of olive green breeches of tufted Fustian, one Coat and Breeches of fine blue Kersey, and one Jacket of fine blue Cloth, and brown olive Over Coat, a pair of Boots, a black natural pacing Mare with a small white spot just over her Eyes, Bridle and Saddle with blue Housing, fringed; Which robbery was supposed to be committed by one Daniel Williams, an Irish Man of short Stature, pretty well set, with short, black curled Hair. If any Person takes up the said Daniel Williams and brings him back, or secured him, and gives notice to John Carle or Thomas Stevenson of Rocky Hill, so that he may be had again, shall have Five Pounds Reward paid by John Carle or Thomas Stevenson."

Thomas Stevenson's wife, Sarah, was the grand-daughter of Major Daniel and Abigail (Stevenson) Whitehead. Major Whitehead was born in 1646. He is sometimes styled junior, as his father bore the same surname and was one of the early settlers of Newtown, on Long Island, dying in 1668, aged 65 years. Daniel Whitehead, Junior, was a wealthy and prominent man, and was one of the patentees of the town of Jamaica. He was a member of the New York Assembly from 1691 to 1701.* He was the Captain of a military company and acquired the title of Major by regular promotion. Major Whitehead died in Jamaica, where his will was dated September 9, 1703. This instrument, which is a long document, was probated October 30, 1704. In it he names all of his children, seven in number. To Jonathan Whitehead (oldest son) he bequeaths, "besides what I have formerly given him by deed," all his lands in Jamaica, "between the Mill and Willin's Path, Lying Westward of the Mill to John Okey's Land, and Southward as far as my land runs, and also my land in Cowneck in the Township of Hempstead, and all that quarter part of the Mill standing in Gildersleeve's Creek in the s'd Neck in Jamaica," except a piece of meadow bought of "Mr. Anthony Waters." proceeds be divided between his two sons, Jonathan and Thomas Whitehead.

Sarah Stevenson's father, Jonathan Whitehead (born in 1672), married, by license July 22, 1697, Sarah, daughter of Robert and Susannah Field, of Newtown, and the sister of the aunt, by marriage, of John Stevenson, her husband's father. Jonathan Whitehead, who lived in Jamaica, was a Justice of the Peace in his county, and succeeded his father, Major Whitehead, as a member of the New York Assembly, serving in that body from 1705 to 1709. He was an active member of Grace (English) Church, Jamaica, and the records of Rev. Thomas Poyer, the Rector, couples his name with some of the most important transactions that took place in that parish. At that day religious disputes between sectarian adherents were frequent, and sometimes they were carried into the civil courts. On October 5, 1702-3, a complaint was made before Justice John Smith that "Jonathan Whitehead, Esq., one of her Majesties Justices set out on a journey with his court mantle behind him on a Sabbath day." When the Justice charged him with the offence, he replied that he broke not the Sabbath day, for he was at church in the forenoon and rode to Newtown in the afternoon.* Ionathan Whitehead's will t is dated January 13, 1736, and was probated July 26, 1739.

Thomas and Sarah Stevenson, so far as known, had but one child:

LXXXVIII. John.

† The date of the birth of Thomas Stevenson, together with those of his brothers and sisters, were taken from the family Bible of Elnathan Stevenson, in possession of the Stewart family.

Alice Shinn was a great-granddaughter of John Shinn, who, Smith, in his history of New Jersey, mentions as having arrived in Burlington between 1678 and 1680. On September 8th, of this latter year, he located a tract of land on Birch Creek, Burlington County, out of 1-15 of a share of propriety, which he had bought of William Emley. His will is dated Springfield Township, January 14, 1711.* He had several daughters and three sons, John, James and Thomas. The latter married 1 mo., 1693, Mary, daughter of Richard and Abigail Stockton, who had removed the year preivous from Flushing, Long Island, to Oneanockon, Springfield Township, Burlington County, N. J. Thomas Shinn died in 1694, leaving one son, Thomas, and a posthumous son named Sanuel Shinn, born 15 day, 2 mo., 1695. The relationship is clearly set out in a deed of trust executed December 28, 1697. † It recites, "Mary Shinn, of Burlington County, widow of Thomas Shinn, deceased, late of said county, to Richard Stockton, Jr., brother of said Mary, and John Shinn, Jr., of said county, brother-in-law of said Mary," about "to be married to Silas Crispin! of Pennsylvania," conveys by deed of trust, land and "a negro boy, Tabby, for the use of Thomas and Samuel Shinn, sons of said Mary," given her "by her late husband, Thomas Shinn, deceased, by will dated November, 1694." Samuel Shinn, the posthumous son of Thomas, married Sarah Schooley, 4 mo., 1718.

Thomas Stevenson was presented by his father with 250 acres of land out of his Amwell tract in Hunterdon County, where he settled, and lived but a few short years, dying in 1748. His brother-in-law, William Pettit, was made administrator of his estate on September 22nd of that year.

Thomas and Alice (Shinn) Stevenson's children were:

CX. Samuel Stevenson.

CXI. Thomas Stevenson, who married, February 9, 1772, in Christ's P. E. Church. Shrewsbury, Isabella Hunt, and had issue: Samuel Stevenson, died unmarried; Euphemia Stevenson, married Isaiah Hazleton; Ashfield Stevenson, died unmarried in 1795; Isaac Stevenson, married Sarah

ROBERT STEVENSON.

No. 65. ROBERT STEVENSON (William<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas1), son of William and Hannah (Hicks) Stevenson, was born October 17, 1722, in Newtown, Long Island. He married September 15, 1770, Hannah Hicks, who was born June 15, 1733. As has been previously mentioned, his father, William Stevenson, removed to the Amwell lands, but appears to have returned for a time to the Province of New York (See No. 17), locating at Yonkers until 1753, when he finally settled at Amwell. Robert Stevenson went to the West Indies with his brother Cornelius, where they were engaged in the sugar trade. Here he made a handsome fortune. After his return he settled in Hunterdon County, New Jersey, but shortly afterwards removed to Philadelphia. Elizabeth Drinker, wife of Henry Drinker, a merchant of the latter city, kept a diary, and records in it some interesting reminiscences about the family. Under date of June 29, 1771, she writes in the house of the Widow Merriott, Bristol, Pennsylvania: "Took a walk this morning to see F'd Ringgold; saw Robert and Hannah Stevenson at Bessonett's; they came home with me and insisted on my going to dine with them at the tavern, which I reluctantly complied with, being very unwell. After dinner I came home with them in the carriage, and they proceeded on their way toward Amwell."

August 22, 1771 (At home in Philadelphia): "Fifth day. Left home after dinner, stopped at Robin Hood's; waited there half an hour for Robert and Hannah Stevenson." The party visited Lancaster, Reading, Allentown and Bethlehem, leaving the latter place on September 4th, where they appear to have separated, Elizabeth Drinker returning to Philadelphia.

There is no farther record of them in this diary until the close of the war. Under date of August 25, 1780, there is noted: "Found Robert and Hannah Stevenson at our house on our return." November 15, 1782: "I went this afternoon to Hannah Stevenson's; H. S. out." The death of her friend is thus given: "September 11, 1783. S. Moore sent us word that if we wished to see our friend H. Stevenson alive we must lose no time. Ye situation of our family had prevented going. H. D. took sister in ye chaise. She found Hannah very low."

"Our dear friend and old acquaintance, Hannah Stevenson, departed this life September ye 19th, 1783, in ye 51st year of her age."

Robert Stevenson remained in Hunterdon County during the Revolutionary struggle, as appears by a deed dated May 17, 1779, which recites that he was a merchant residing at Hopewell. His death is thus recorded in the diary under date of April 19, 1796: "Our valued friend and acquaintance, Robert Stevenson, Sr., departed this life this morning about 8 o'clock, aged 74. His disorder apoplectic."

His children were:

CXXXIV. Robert Stevenson. From the diary: "December 20, 1794.

Robert Stevenson, Jr., called after dinner, ye first time of seeing him since his return. He has been about three months in McPherson's company of volunteers, called by some the Quaker company, as several under our names were with them. He gave me an account of some particulars of their expedition. Robert is not yet 19 years old." He died unmarried.

CXXXV. Jane Stevenson, born August 5, 1772, married Jacob Clarkson, November 28, 1795.

CXXXVI. Hannah Stevenson, born June 14, 1774. From the diary: "November 13, 1794. On Seventh day evening last, (November 8), Clifford Smith was married to Hannah Stevenson, daughter of Robert Stevenson. Her mother, Hannah Stevenson, formerly Hicks, was an intimate and dear friend of my sister and self."

"March 11, 1799. We are informed of the death of Owen Biddle and Clifford Smith. H. Smith, formerly Stevenson, is left with three children. She is a young widow." Hannah Smith married second, Owen Jones.

CXXXVII. Susanna Stevenson, born —. From the diary: "October 16, 1804. From Poulson's paper of this evening: 'Married on Saturday evening last by the Rev. John Hey, Doct'r Elijah Perkins to Miss Susan Stephenson, daughter of Robert Stephenson, Esq., deceased.' Her parents were our valued friends."

"June 22, 1816. A note of invitation came this forenoon to the funeral of Doctor Elijah Perkins, who married Susan Stevenson. His death was very sudden; he was abroad with his wife last night, and was taken into some house, where he died about 10 o'clock."

JOHN STEVENSON.

No. 67. JOHN STEVENSON (William<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of William and Hannah (Hicks) Stevenson, was born March 28, 1728. He is named in the will of his father William Stevenson, who, as has been previously mentioned, resided during his son's youth at Yonkers, New York. In his marriage license* which is recorded in Trenton, New Jersey, his residence is given in New York. It was to marry Elizabeth Throckmorton, and bore date June 15, 1754. James Stevenson, his cousin, of Middletown, New Jersey, was a bondsman. The marriage took place at Christ's P. E. Church, Shrewsbury, New Jersey, June 17, 1754.

Elizabeth Throckmorton was descended from John Throckmorton, the emigrant, who arrived at Nantasket, Massachusetts, in the ship "Lion," on February 1, 1631. He was in Salem in 1639, and went from thence to Rhode Island. From there he led a colony of thirty-five families to Westchester County, New York. On July 6, 1643, he obtained from the Dutch Director-General Kieft, a patent for a grant of land, then called Vreedland. On October 6, of the same year, the colony was surprised by the Indians, many of them massacred and the rest driven off. John Throckmorton, on April 20, 1652, petitions the Director-General "to transport Throckmorton's Neck, Westchester County," which soon afterwards he conveyed to Augustus Hermans.

The land from Sandy Hook to the Raritan River in what is now Monmouth County, New Jersey, was taken up by what is known as the Monmouth Patent, dated April 8, 1664, given by Governor Nicholls to Samuel Spicer, his brother-in-law, John Tilton, both of Gravesend, Long Island, and nine other associates, whose purpose was to dispose of it to actual settlers. The right of Nicholls to make this grant was disputed, and was not finally confirmed until 1672. Out of this land a patent * was granted in 1675 to "John Throckmorton and wife" for 240 acres, in right of his father "John Trogmorton." At the same time 120 acres were granted to Job Throckmorton, who was his brother. On June 25, 1688. there was confirmed † to "Job Throckmorton, of Middletown," 1-10 of 1-48 share of a Propriety of East Jersey held by purchase from John Throckmorton. Job Throckmorton was a member of the East Jersey Assembly that met at Perth Amboy in 1694. Letters of Administration were granted on his estate to his widow Sarah, on June 8, 1711. His son Job, styled senior in the record, and his wife Frances had three children, Job, Lewis and Rebecca Throckmorton, baptized on February 9, 1746, at Colt's Neck, by Rev. Thomas Thompson, missionary in charge of Shrewsbury P, E. Church. At the same time Elizabeth, daughter of Job and Hannah Throckmorton, was also baptized. Both Job Throckmortons, father and son, were deceased in 1748.1

*An Act of the Assembly of New Jersey was passed March 29, 1719, which required that before the marriage of any one under the age of 21 years, a license should be obtained. There were two methods prescribed. By the first one, the applicant must file with the Secretary of the Colony the certified consent of parent or guardian, and subscribe to an oath or affirmation of its truth. To this must be attached a bond of security for £500, signed by two real estate owners. The other mode was for the contacting parties, if under 21 years, to repair to the County Clerk's office and make oath or affirmation, and give security the same as in the first instance, whereupon the Cierk, within 14 days, must post a notice of such marriage in three public places in the county, and if within 21 days no objections were filed by the parent or guardian a license could be granted. This law continued in force until after the Revolution.

John Stevenson removed to Amwell, New Jersey, sometime after his marriage, as his will § is dated in that township February 21, 1764, and was probated March 30, 1775. His death took place February 20, in the latter year. His widow Elizabeth survived him. On November 15, 1780, she makes a deed || to her brothers-in-law, "Robert Stevenson, late of Amwell, and Cornelius Stevenson, of the Island of St. Eustatius, West Indies," for a tract of land which the deed says was "part of the plantation of the late William Stevenson." Elizabeth Stevenson's will is dated in Trenton, New Jersey, June 13, 1813, and was probated January 15, 1817. In it she names her four surviving children: William, James and Crooke Stevenson, and daughter Hannah Muirhead.

John and Elizabeth Stevenson's children were:

CXLII. Hannah Stevenson, born January 26, 1755, baptized at Shrewsbury, January 31, 1755; buried February 23, 1755. CXLIII. Robert Stevenson, born February 9, 1756. Letters of Administration were granted on his estate to his brother John Stevenson, in December, 1791.

CXLIV. William Stevenson, born October 19, 1757, was baptized at Shrewsbury, October 23, 1760. He married Rowland Newton; no issue. Both are buried in St. Stephen's P. E. Church, Philadelphia, where a stone in the nave bears the following inscription:

"Sacred to the memory of William Stevenson, who died Dec'r 11, 1832, aged 75.

Rowland Stevenson, who died March 27, 1834, aged 79."

CXLV. John Stevenson, * born February 12, 1760, resided at Amwell. He was married to Catharine Corshon, June 13, 1782, by Rev. William Frazer, a clergyman of the Protestant Episcopal Church. Their marriage license was dated two days previously. John Stevenson was a member of the Episcopal Church. He was a delegate from St. Andrew's Church, Amwell, to the Diocesan Conventions which met at Burlington, in 1786; at Shrewsbury, in 1788 and 1790, and at Elizabethtown, in 1807. His will is dated February 2, 1811, and was probated May 7th, of the same year. It is interesting to note that in this will he orders his "negroes to be sold," except "my black girl named Isabel." This shows that slavery was still firmly established in New Jersey in the early part of the nineteenth century. His brother, James Stevenson, of Hopewell, and Jacob Fisher, Jr., of Amwell, were his executors. John Stevenson left one child, Margaret Stevenson, who married Samuel Wyckoff,† whose children were Elizabeth Ann Wyckoff, John Stevenson Wyckoff and Ursula Wyckoff.

CXLVI. Hannah Stevenson, born December 3, 1761, died young.
CXLVII. James Stevenson, born October 16 1763, married February 17, 1795, Susan Hunt; died December 30, 1839, and had issue: John Hunt Stevenson, born February 20, 1796, died August 18, 1829, and Elizabeth Stevenson.

CXLVIII. Crooke Stevenson.

* John Stevenson, George Muirhead, aged 17, and Uriel Titus, went to Elizabeth, during the Revolutionary War, on service alone. Colonel Seely in command, refused them pay and rations, but finally attached them to Captain Updike's company, they served out their month and were honorably discharged.—Mercer County History.

† Samuel Wyckoff was descended from Peter Claes Wyckoff, who emigrated from Holland, in 1636, to Flatbush, Long Island, of which town he became magistrate in 1655, 1658, 1662 and 1663. His son Cornelius Pieterse Wyckoff was one of a Dutch company that purchased a tract of land in Somerset County, New Jersey, in 1701. Several of his descendents removed into Hunterdon, the adjoining county, and were prominent officials there. Simon Wyckoff represented the latter in the New Jersey Assembly for twelve years between 1793 and 1805.

AUGUSTINE STEVENSON.

No. 70. AUGUSTINE STEVENSON (William<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of William and Hannah (Hicks) Stevenson, was born April 22, 1744. He married Caroline Willett (born May 5, 1750,) on November 14, 1770.

Augustine Stevenson lived at Amwell, Hunterdon County, N. J. He was a member from that county of the Provincial Congress of New Jersey, that met at Trenton, in October, 1775. At a session held on the 28th day of this month he was one of thirteen members appointed on the "Committee of Safety to act for the public welfare of this colony (New Jersey) in the recess of this Congress." He was again returned a member of the Congress in 1776, which met at New Brunswick, and was continued on the Committee of Safety. He died January 3, 1794, and Letters of Administration were granted to his widow, February 24th of the same year. She died May 1, 1813.

Caroline Willett was the daughter of Samuel Willett, of Black Stump, Long Island. He was born February 17, 1724, and married Elizabeth, daughter of Samuel Lawrence. Caroline Willett's grandfather was John Willett, son of Col. Thomas Willett, of Flushing (see No. 18), who married Mary, daughter of Dr. John Rodman.

Caroline (Willett) Stevenson's will* is dated at Amwell, Hunterdon County, N. J., October 10, 1810, and was proved November 3, 1813. In this instrument she mentions her daughters Elizabeth and Susan Runyan, grandson Augustine Runyan, granddaughter Caroline Runyan and "granddaughter Caroline, daughter of son Robert Stevenson." She also leaves bequests to sons Augustine and William Stevenson, and to her son "Willett Stevenson's children," but does not name them. Her executors were "son-in-law Daniel Cox Runyan, son Augustine Stevenson," and "George Muirhead."

Augustine and Caroline Stevenson's children were:

CORNELIUS STEVENSON.

No. 71. Cornelius Stevenson (William<sup>3</sup>, Edward<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of William and Hannah (Hicks) Stevenson, was born April 4, 1738. With his brother Robert, he went to the West Indies, and engaged in the sugar trade, where he amassed a fortune. His brother, Robert Stevenson, seems to have returned to the colonies by 1770, but according to deeds recorded in Trenton, New Jersey, Cornelius was a resident in 1780 of the Island of St. Eustatius. By 1790 he had returned to New York, as on April 20th of that year he executes, to his brother Robert, a power of attorney to transact business for him in Hunterdon County, New Jersey.

Cornelius Stevenson married, on November 29, 1764, probably in the West Indies, Susannah Pickman, born June 18, 1741, who was a young widow with one child. Upon his return to the colonies he settled in New York, and lived at the corner of Broad and Mill streets. He had no issue, but seems to have adopted his step-daughter, who took his name and inherited his estate.

His widow, Susannah Stevenson, made her will in 1804, and died January 10, 1805. In it she names her daughter, Elizabeth Gouverneur, widow of Isaac; granddaughter, Susan, wife of Samuel Murgatroyd; great granddaughter Susan Rich Murgatroyd, and great grandson Thomas Stevenson Murgatroyd, children of Samuel and Susan Murgatroyd; also her "friends" Mrs. Ann Stevenson, Mrs. Rowland Newton, Mrs. Hannah Muirhead and niece Mrs. Mary Crockatt.

*The dates of birth, etc., of Augustine Stevenson's children were copied from the Bible of Mrs. Letitia C. Harrison.

JOHN STEVENSON.

No. 88. John Stevenson (Thomas<sup>4</sup>, John<sup>3</sup>, Thomas<sup>2</sup>, Thomas<sup>1</sup>), son of Thomas and Sarah (Whitehead) Stevenson, was born in Hunterdon County, New Jersey, 22 day, 11 mo., 1732. His father had a birthright membership in the Society of Friends, but his mother, nee Sarah Whitehead, had been baptized into the English Church, on Long Island, and therefore could not join the Quakers without her husband's making an acknowledgment of his error in marrying "out of meeting;" therefore their son John had no claim to membership at Quakertown, by birth, but, desiring to join the Friends, he makes application to the meeting there, on 9 day, 9 mo., 1756, and is admitted. A few years later, 3 day, 8 mo., 1759, he gets a certificate of removal to Chesterfield, Burlington County; but afterwards returns again to Quakertown, with a certificate dated 3 day, 8 mo., 1760.

John Stevenson declared, in the Quakertown Meeting, his first intention to marry Mercy King on 12 day, 7 mo., 1760. She was born at Amwell, 26 day, 10 mo., 1739, and was the daughter of Joseph, Junior, and Mercy King. Her emigrant ancestor was Harmanus King, who went from England to Holland, and thence to Flushing, Long Island. He was enumerated amongst its taxable inhabitants in 1683, and in 1698, and was made a freeman of the town. The next year he removed to Nottingham Township, Burlington County, N. J. He was a member of the Flushing Friends' Meeting, and brought the following certificate to the Chesterfield Meeting.

*" ffrom our Monthly Meeting at fflushing one Long Island the Seventh day of ye ffirst mo., 1699."

"Signed by order and on behalf of Said Meeting

"Harmanius" King's will is dated Nottingham Township, September 1, 1726, and was probated March 14, 1727. In it he names his wife, four sons and one daughter.

His son, Joseph, Senior, was born in Flushing. He early (1729) bought large tracts of land in that part of Bethlehem Township, which, about 1749, was set off as a separate district and named after him, Kingwood Township. It is now in Franklin Township. Joseph King, Senior, was one of the organizers of the Quakertown Friends' Meeting, and was one of the five trustees to whom the lot for the Meeting House was deeded in 1733. A memorial in the records of that meeting recites: "Our antient Friend Joseph King," (Senior,) "departed this life the 10th Day of the 12th Month, 1761, In the Seventy-eight year of his age, and was Inter'd in Friends' Burying Ground, Kingwood, the Eleventh day of the Same Month."

His son Joseph, Junior, lived in Amwell Township, but the birth of all his children are recorded in the Quakertown records.

About the year 1779, John Stevenson removed to Independence Township, Sussex County, and attached himself to the Hardwick Friends' Meeting. He died 12 day, 4 mo., 1812.

Samuel Stevenson removed to Philadelphia, and in early life engaged in the mercantile and shipping business, from which he retired in 1847. He took an active part in public affairs, and for many years served as one of the Commissioners for the government of the District of Northern Liberties, before its incorporation into the City of Philadelphia in 1854. After the consolidation, he was three times successively elected a member of the Common Council of that city. He was tendered the position of candidate for mayor, which he declined. Prior to 1838, Samuel Stevenson represented Philadelphia in the Pennsylvania Assembly. In the latter year he was elected to the State Senate, and was a participant in what is known in history as the "Buckshot War," which was a contest for seats in the Legislature, from which he emerged victorious.

Samuel Stevenson was the founder of what is known as the "Beggars School," established in his own District of Northern Liberties, for the education of poor children, which was in fact the pioneer of the public school system of Philadelphia. Wright, his son, established the present works on a scale much greater than the old mill, which has been abandoned. After his death in 1847, his son Charles took charge of the business.

Howard Augustin Stevenson entered the army in the Civil War in 1861, and was attached to the Second Regiment, First Brigade of the Pennsylvania Volunteers. On October 31, 1862, he was transferred to the medical department of the U. S. Steamship "State of Georgia," and served until the close of the war. Upon the death of his uncle in 1824, he purchased the latter's farm.;

* Grace Brotherton was the daughter of James and Alice Brotherton. The first of the name (of this branch of the family) in America was Henry. * The following memorial from a local newspaper expressed the esteem in which Mr. Stevenson was held by his neighbors:

A very large number of persons attended the funeral of Mr. Samuel Stevenson at his late residence, on the "Fruit Farm," in this township, on Sunday last. The remains were interred in the Clark's Green Cemetery. The services were somewhat after the manuer of the Society of Friends, in the practice of whose principles Mr. Stevenson had lived, and in the belief of whose doctrine he had both lived and died. There was no sermon, and none was needed. No power of oratory could have deepened the feeling of respect and esteem which twenty years' residence among us had impressed upon the hearts of his neighbors. Possessed of more than ordinary natural ability, he had added to it the culture that comes from study and a wide and varied practical experience. Whatever may have been his acquirements, he did not hesitate to use them for the benefit of his fellow-men. Efforts to promote the efficiency of our schools, to improve the business of agriculture, to facilitate travel on our roads, as well as improvements of a less local character, always enlisted his ready sympathy and active co-operation. Had his physical constitution been commensurate with his mental endowments, he would have occupied an extended sphere of usefulness. The expressions of laborers whom he employed, of those with whom he had larger business relations, and of those with whom he was on terms of social intimacy, all indicate the consciousness of a loss not easily repaired.

This particular branch of the family we find in Litchfield, Connecticut, where Henry Merriam, the grandfather of Grace Stevenson was born in December, 1802. He died in Goshen, New York, in 1892. While a mere lad the family removed to Schaghticoke, New York. He remained there for a time, but settled in early manhood in Goshen, New York, where for over forty years he carried on a prosperous hardware business. Mr. Merriam was highly esteemed in the town and filled many positions of trust. He married in 1833, Ann Eliza Reeve, who was born in Goshen, May 3, 1810, and who still resides there at the advanced age of ninety years.

William Alonzo and Grace Maria Stevenson had issue: Frances Mary Stevenson, born November 3, 1892, at Waverly, Tioga County, N.Y.; William Merriam Stevenson, born April 8, 1895, at Sayre, Bradford County, Pa.; Margaret Stevenson.

CCLVI. Elmira Stevenson, born 12 day, 12 mo., 1830, married at Latonia, Pennsylvania, November 28, 1865, Hiram Deats (Johu³, William², Adam¹).

William Deats settled near Flemington, Hunterdon County, N. J. His son, father of Hiram Deats, married Ursula, daughter of Captain Elisha Barton, an officer from Hunterdon, in the Revolutionary War.* Hiram Deats was born April 12, 1810. He began the manufacture of ploughs near Quakertown, about 1831. Gradually enlarging his business, he added other agricultural implements and also the casting of stoves. He removed his establishment to Pittstown in 1859. For half a century he carried on one of the largest and most successful manufacturing enterprises in that county.†

Hiram Deats married (1st), November 10, 1838, Rebecca, daughter of Jonathan Higgins, of Hillsborough, Somerset County.

By his second wife, Elmira Stevenson, he had one child, Hiram Edmund Deats, born May 20, 1870, married, September 27, 1893, Eva Augusta (born August 25, 1870), daughter of James G. Taylor, of Holmdel Township, Monmouth County, N. J. CCLVII. Edmund Stevenson, born 19 day, 12 mo., 1833, died 23 day, 9 mo., 1834.

WILLIAM STEVENSON
No. CCLVIII

The following account of his life and death is taken from a newspaper published at Elmira, New York:

William Stevenson, formerly General Superintendent of the Lehigh Valley railway, died at Jacksonville, Florida, Sunday, at midnight. He had been in failing health for upwards of a year and a half and his death was not unexpected. Last summer he visited Europe, and returned home somewhat improved in health, but the gain was not permanent. Mr. Stevenson had resided here for upwards of a quarter of a century, and he was held in the highest esteem both as a railway official and citizen. Mr. Stevenson was born in New Jersey, in September, 1835, and was never married. Mr. Stevenson's early life was spent as a school teacher, having previously received an academic education and instruction in civil engineering. Later he went West and engaged in the latter profession. In 1868 he had charge of the construction of the State Line & Sullivan Railway, and at the same time was also engaged in the construction of the New York, New Haven & Hartford tunnel. After concluding his labors on the Sullivan road, he went to Easton, and took charge of the construction of the Easton and Amboy Division of the Lehigh Valley, which division he left in 1875, to become superintendent of the Geneva, Ithaca & Savre, with headquarters at Sayre. At the beginning of the year 1881, he became superintendent of the Pennsylvania & New York Canal & Railway Company and four years later managing director of the Southern Central. In 1889, he was appointed general superintendent of the Northern Division of the Lehigh Valley, which position he held until 1892, when failing health compelled him to retire. He was given a long leave of absence, during which he made a tour of the West, and on his return formally resigned his position. He was a director in the Sayre Land Company, the Cayuga Wheel and Foundry Company, of this village, and the director of the Citizens' National Bank, of Towanda. The crowning work of Mr. Stevenson's life was the building of the Lehigh double track extension from Van Ettenville to Buffalo, one of the finest pieces of railroad construction in the United States. It was in the building of this highway that his health gave out, the strain of overwork being too much for a man even of his robust frame. In building the great Lehigh extension he came in close contact in business relations with citizens from Sayre to Buffalo, and not one of them but learned to respect his integrity of purpose, his fairness and his strict fidelity to all promises. He was a man of simple habits, unobtrusive and unassuming, but of great capacity for work; of untiring energy, keen, shrewd and practical. In every relation of life he brought to those around him, comfort, kindly feeling and happiness. It is perhaps the truest epitaph to his memory to say that he was devoted to every trust, and dies regretted by all who knew him. Mr. Stevenson had resided at the Wilbur House since its opening, where he had an elegant suite of rooms. He was a member of Union Lodge, No. 108, F. & A. M.; Union Chapter, No. 161, R. A. M.; Northern Commandery, No. 16, K. T., and served as Eminent Commander in 1873.

CCLIX. Edward Burroughs Stevenson, born 2 day, 10 mo., 1837, died unmarried 11 day, 5 mo., 1860. He was drowned near La Porte, Pennsylvania, while superintending the floating of a lumber raft.

CCLX. #### THE STEVENSONS OF PENNSYLVANIA.

Entirely disconnected from the families of Thomas and Edward Stevenson were several of the name who appeared in the early settlement of Philadelphia and Pennsylvania. Fourteen years after the founding of the above-named city, a Robert Stevenson made a will there (1695), and in 1710, an Alan Stevenson also made a will. Both are lost, and neither of them were recorded.

In the same city, which seems to have been a favorite place of settlement for persons of this name, a Timothy Stevenson, whitesmith, died and left a will dated June 6, 1733, and probated September 10th the same year. In it are the following names: wife Rachael; sister Ann Jackson; children John, Thomas, William, James, Joseph, Ann Rush and Elizabeth Carey. Between this date and the Revolution we find additional names such as Adam, George, Martin and Clotworthy Stevenson. Some of these emigrated from Scotland and the north of Ireland, as is shown by documents left behind them.

York County, Pennsylvania, was set off from Lancaster County in 1749, having been largely settled by the Scotch-Irish. Among the Judges of the Court of Quarter Sessions of the new county who assembled that year, was George Stevenson.
